P. H. NOLAN KILLS SELF IN BREWERY THAT HE FOUNDED

Organizer of Mutual Company Was to Have Testified Today in Bankruptcy Suit Against Concern—Ended Life With Revolver in Office.

MET WIFE ON STREET SHORT TIME BEFORE

Promoter Spent Day Calling on Creditors in Effort to Reach Compromise—Was Known to Friends as a Lavish Spender.

Patrick H. Nolan, 33 years old, vice-president and manager of the Mutual Brewing Co. and professional promoter, was shot and killed himself in his office at 435 Forest Park boulevard, St. Louis, last night after he had spent the day visiting creditors, trying to get their approval of a mortgage plan by which he hoped to lift bankruptcy and reverse proceedings now pending against the Mutual Brewing Co.

Nolan was known to many as a professional promoter. He made his business of organizing breweries, usually with saloon keepers as the principal stockholders. His income was derived from commissions on all the stock sold. In addition, he received a certain percentage of the receipts on all beer sold by the breweries which he organized.

Montville (Conn.) Boat Man Learns of Bequest by Man He Had Forgotten.

MONTVILLE, Conn., Nov. 24.—A bequest of $75,000 is the reward which has been given Henry A. She had fallen overboard from her father's yacht, Bolles, who was a boatman, said today, he remembered the father asking him to help, but he had heard nothing more from him.

15 DIE, 43 SAVED, IN SHIPWRECK OUT OF GOLDEN GATE

Schooner Hanalei Is Shattered on a Reef With 62 Persons on Board.

RESCUES ARE THRILLING

Thirty Towed Ashore by Life Lines or Swim to Shore; Several Missing.

By Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—Forty-three survivors and 15 dead from the wrecked coasting steamer Hanalei, which went ashore yesterday on Duxbury Reef, nine miles outside of Golden Gate, had been accounted for at 10 a. m. today.

Of these, 30 were towed ashore by life lines or struggled through the smother of surf by their own strength, and 13 were carried aboard the revenue cutter McCulloch. The 15 dead also were on the McCulloch.

These figures did not include, however, five men of the Fort Point Life Saving Crew, San Francisco, who were swamped last night. Two of these were known to have come safely ashore, but the remaining three were variously reported as aboard the McCulloch and among those cast adrift when the Hanalei broke up. They could not be counted with any certainty among either the dead or the living.

Oil from the fuel tanks of the smashed ship coated the sea and made slimy the rocks of the beach, adding to the difficulty of the rescuers.

Five persons who swam ashore were Earl Carlson, James O'Donnell and David Menille, passengers, and John Wilson and Fred Stevens, sailors. Among the rescued was Capt. J. J. Carey of the Hanalei.

Passenger Swims to Shore. Efforts to take off the Hanalei's passengers and crew from shore began yesterday afternoon. A dozen vessels had tried to reach her and were prevented by fog and surf.

The Fort Point lifesaving crew from the beach first lines which fell short until in desperation they doubled back and tried to launch a boat from the Hanalei. A passenger and a sailor were drowned.

A sailor tried to swim ashore with a line and men on the beach could see him swimming above the waves, but at the line of breakers he sank and his body drifted to sea.

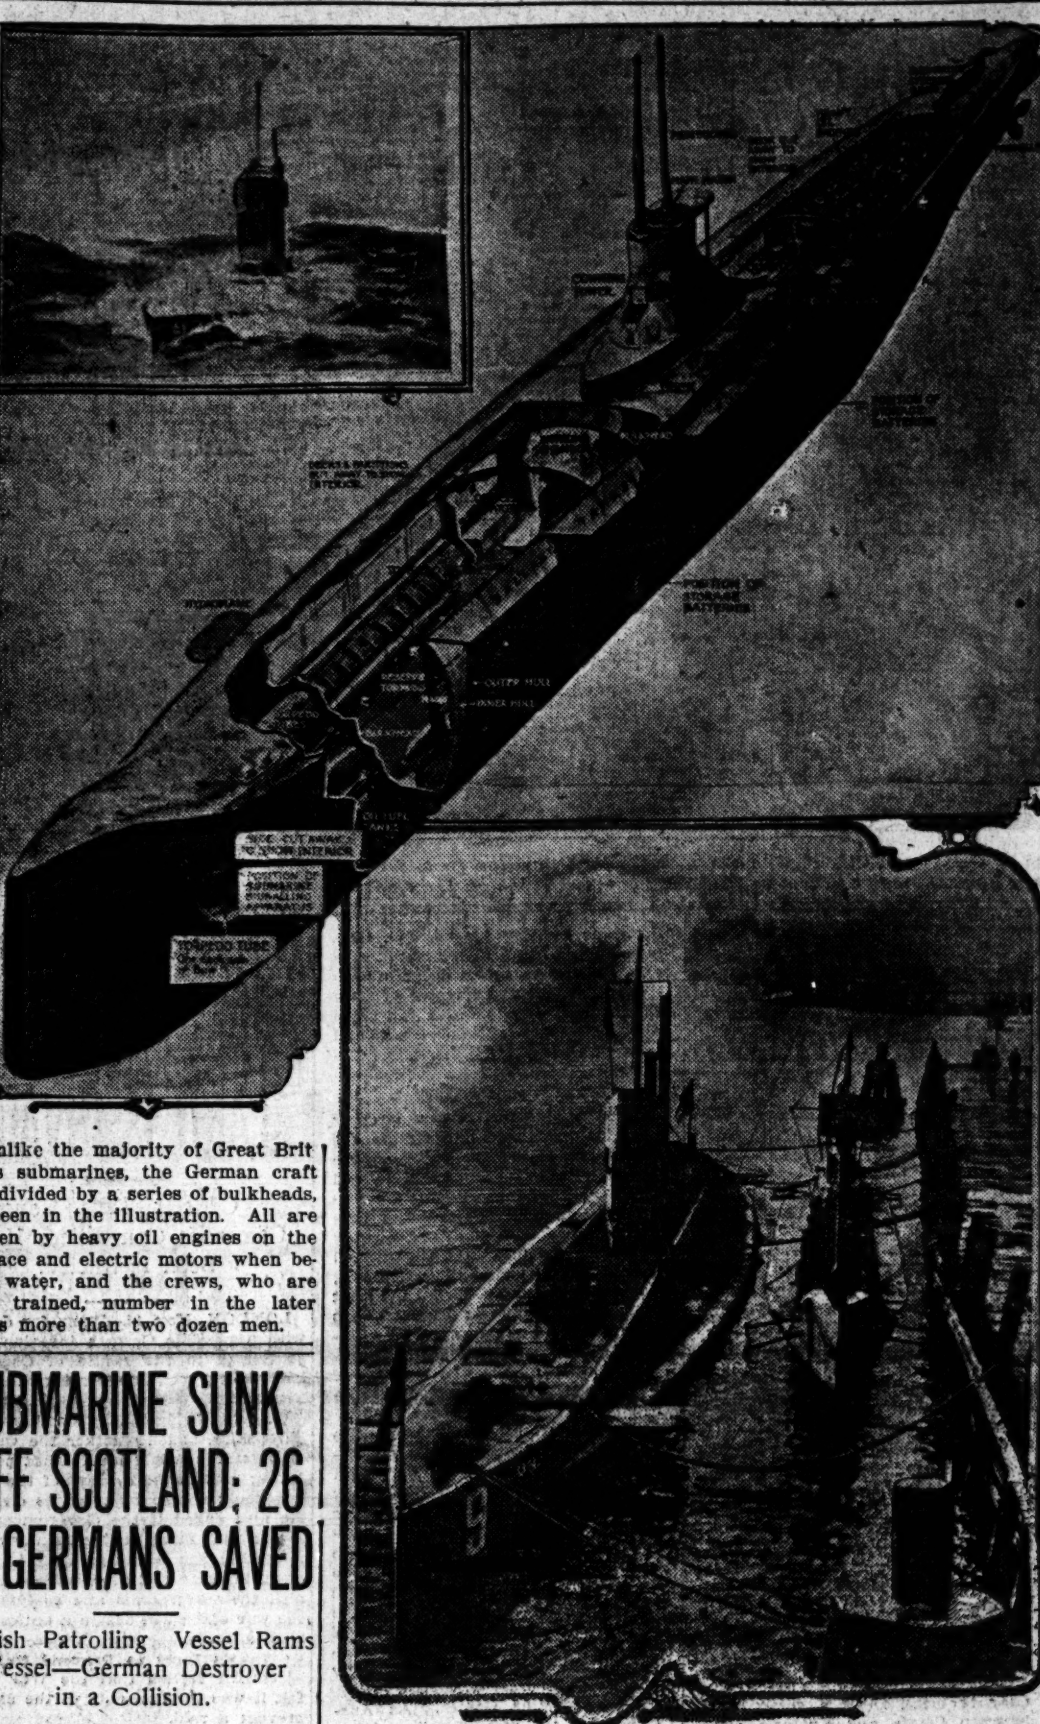

A passenger, Elwood Schwerin of Berkeley, Cal., took a line and got ashore, but the line untied itself as he swam. One other man, it was reported, also reached shore, but the details were lacking.

At 2 o'clock in the morning the Golden Gate lifesaving crew, with a larger motor, appeared. Through the enterprise of a San Francisco newspaper, it had been ferried across San Francisco Bay, loaded on a motor truck and sent 10 miles over mountain roads. It began to shoot lines toward the wreck as the tide rose. After the third shot the water was waist deep on the schooner, and the wireless operators, who were sending with an improvised outfit held in one hand, reported that the passengers were desperate.

"We will get ashore as best we can," he reported. "We cannot stay here." But they dared not trust the waves. Try once more, "Bury! Bury!" called the operator a little later. In a few minutes the ship broke in two.

Duxbury Reef is at the end of a deep and narrow channel running north from San Francisco harbor along the very edge of the cliff. Big and little boats tried to get in and out to avoid a big feller of shoal water known as the "potato patch," which begins just beyond the channel and runs for miles to sea. In clear weather it is easily navigated.

Interior View of New German Submarine. Type of Vessel That Was Sunk by British Warship Yesterday

SUBMARINE SUNK OFF SCOTLAND; 26 GERMANS SAVED

British Patrolling Vessel Rams Vessel—German Destroyer in a Collision.

BERLIN, by wireless to Sayville, L. I., Nov. 24.—The official press bureau made denial today of the statement of the secretary of the British Admiralty yesterday that a German submarine had been sunk off the coast of Scotland by a British patrolling vessel. "No submarines are missing," said the bureau.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The Secretary of the Admiralty announced the German submarine U-15 which was reported off the north coast of Scotland yesterday morning, was rammed by a British patrolling vessel and foundered.

The patrolling ship rammed the submarine at 12:30 p. m. The U-15 was not seen again until 1:30, when she appeared on the surface flying a white flag. Shortly after this she foundered just off the British destroyer Garry went along. The destroyer rescued three of the crew and 23 of the submarine's crew, only one being drowned. The German officers rescued are Captain-Lieutenant von Hennig, Engineer-Lieutenant Sprenger and Lieut. Neuberger.

The submarine U-15 was built in 1912. She had a cruising radius of 2000 miles and a speed of 14 knots above water and eight knots submerged.

The north coast of Scotland is approximately 500 miles northeast of the German naval base at Wilhelmshafen. To reach the northern coast of Ireland, where the British superdreadnaught Audacious was sunk either by German mine or a German torpedo Oct. 27, German craft would have to travel about 250 miles southwest from the north coast of Scotland.

Conflicting reports have reached here concerning the fate of the German torpedo boat destroyer U-15, which was in collision Sunday with the steamer Angladane in the Baltic Sea, outside of Falsterbo, Sweden. One report states two German torpedos boats attempted to tow her to Sweden, though she was in a sinking condition, but there is no report of her arrival. Other reports state she sank almost immediately.

A dispatch to Reuters' Telegraph Co. from Copenhagen says the crew of the U-15 has arrived in Copenhagen. Another Copenhagen dispatch says two German torpedo boats went to the assistance of the destroyer as she was about to sink and a majority of the crew was taken aboard them. Three of the men were rescued by the Angladane, but one of them, the chief engineer, died a half hour later.

Swedish King Sends Dispatch to Embassy in U. S. by Messenger

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—P. O. messenger of the King of Sweden, reached New York this afternoon on the steamship Hellig Olav from Christiansand, bearing a message from King Gustav to the Swedish Embassy at Washington, which he said was too important to trust either to the mails or the cables. He departed at once for Washington.

The messenger said the packet had been sealed personally by the King and was entrusted to him only a few hours before the steamship sailed. Oatberg thought the message did not deal with Sweden's neutrality status. "So far as I know, Sweden will remain strictly neutral," he said.

The Hellig Olav was stopped by the British cruiser Drake, north of Scotland Island and permitted to proceed after the cruiser's officers had examined her passenger list and manifest.

BOMB IN WARSAW ALMOST WRECKS U. S. CONSULATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A bomb from a German airplane fell in front of the American consulate at Warsaw yesterday by Mrs. F. W. Pollock-Lawrence of London, a militant suffragist and a lieutenant of Mrs. Pankhurst, in an address before the Women's City Club.

Several persons in the street in front of the consulate were killed and wounded, but no American was hurt.

Many Women and Children Killed in New Attack on Liban.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Petrograd says: "Advices received here from Liban are that the Germans opened a second bombardment of the city, especially directed against the most populous quarters. A great many women and a number of children were killed."

AMBULANCE DOGS RESCUE MANY OF FRENCH WOUNDED

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The Institute of Zoological Psychology reports that the dogs that accompany the French ambulances are behaving well under fire.

The director of this Institute testifies: "All reports are most encouraging. Some of the details of their instructions may be open to question. It is probably bad that they should be taught to bring in the caps and handkerchiefs of wounded soldiers, but our dogs of war are performing noteworthy service and it is a pity that we have not many more of them."

The leader of one section of the ambulance dogs says: "The best dog given to me at first pulled so hard on the leash that he tired me out; he would not always return on the first call, a trick that would be unfortunate under fire; he was terrified even by distant artillery and it appeared as if he would be useless in action. But in a week that dog was valuable beyond words. I have today returned with him from recovering wounded soldiers almost in the enemy's trenches with innocent din all around him. Tonight just before the ambulances were to return I took him out for one last inspection. In a half-hour he found three soldiers who otherwise might have died of exposure. Moreover, he never touched one of them, but can back and forth till I came up to him."

A writer in Le Matin claims that the Germans have 25,000 dogs mostly belonging to France that are now being trained to go with the ambulances. A French society has been formed to train dogs for this work and already many dogs are "at school."

Suggests "Strike" of Mothers Until War Menace Is Gone

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Women should refuse to be mothers until the menace of war is no more, was the suggestion made yesterday by Mrs. F. W. Pollock-Lawrence of London, a militant suffragist and a lieutenant of Mrs. Pankhurst, in an address before the Women's City Club.

Several persons in the street in front of the consulate were killed and wounded, but no American was hurt.

ADVANCE ON WARSAW CHECKED; GERMANS RETIRE NEAR LODZ

Von Hindenburg's Armies Fall Back Along Line Running From the Northeast of Lodz, Past That Town and to Southwest, Abandoning Guns and Losing Many Men.

NEW OFFENSIVE EXPECTED FROM ANOTHER QUARTER

Russians Bring Up Reinforcements When Hard Pressed and Get Behind Invaders, Who Are Being Pursued Vigorously—Violent Fighting in the Argonne District in France Is Without Notable Result.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—An official communication given out in Petrograd, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch, announces German retreat in Poland. The statement follows:

"Between the Vistula and the Warta the Germans have retreated from the line running from Strykow to Zgierz, Szadek, Zdunska, Wola and Wozniki."

This line runs from the northeast of Lodz down past that town and to the southwest.

The Times Petrograd correspondent, in a dispatch supplementing one declaring that private advices received in the Russian capital had confirmed the reports of a Russian victory over the Germans in Poland, says:

"According to unofficial information reaching here, the German army of 400,000, which made an irruption between the Vistula and Warta Rivers, has been broken up into several parts, one of which was compelled to divert its course southward and another northward."

"Apparently in each case the Russian forces succeeded in getting behind these disorganized corps and inflicted upon them great losses."

"The Germans are believed to have suffered very heavy reverses at Berezyn and Tuszyn. It is impossible as yet to give even approximate figures."

"Large bodies of the enemy's forces were surrounded and captured near Lovicz," continues the Times dispatch.

"The enemy is reported in some cases as abandoning his guns."

"It is expected, however, that Gen. von Hindenburg, who has been reinforced by a new reserve corps, will attempt an offensive at another point on the Polish border."

The Daily Telegraph Petrograd correspondent intimates the German Crown Prince's army during the last five days threatened Warsaw, but was severely repulsed. The correspondent says, however, that his forces arrived alarmingly close to Warsaw before they were finally checked.

Casualties of Victory. A dispatch to the Morning Post from Petrograd, dated Monday, says: "Emperor Nicholas, visiting the wounded in the Tsarke-Selo Hospital this afternoon told the men that news had been received of a Russian success between the Warta and Vistula rivers, where two entire German regiments were taken prisoners."

"It is reported that the Emperor was in extremely cheerful mood. From this it is presumed the turning point really has been reached in the battle."

"It is also reported unofficially here that the Russians already are bombarding Cracow, which is in flames."

FIGHTING CEASES IN SOUTH POLAND

Berlin Declares No Decision Has Been Reached in Russian Campaign.

BERLIN, by wireless to London, Nov. 24.—An official communication given out today by the German headquarters staff, says:

"In the eastern war theater the situation has not yet been decided. In East Prussia our troops are holding their own to the northeast of the plain of the (Masur) lakes."

"In Northern Poland the fierce fighting which has been taking place still has been without result."

"In Southern Poland the battle in the region of Camstochowa has opened to a standstill."

Germans Repulsed at Gates of Warsaw Last Week in October

THE first German invasion of Poland reached its height at the middle of October, and met its repulse in the last week of that month. On Oct. 13 the American Consul in Warsaw cabled to Washington that the Polish capital was about to fall into the Germans' hands, and asked for instructions as to the care of foreign interests during the expected German occupation.

The German progress toward Warsaw continued after that message, and Ivanogorod as well as Warsaw was threatened with occupation. Warsaw was so nearly approached that the outer defenses fully expected a night attack, but for some unexplained reason, this attack was not delivered, and meantime reinforcements were brought up, which were adequate for the defense of the city. The German retreat followed, and the Russians, who had drawn up their army of Galicia to defend Poland, were able to return this force to Galicia and to renew the attack on Cracow. By Nov. 5, the German retreat was general, and the Russian invasion of East Prussia was renewed. The next week the Germans turned on their pursuers.

off the Belgian coast yesterday and bombarded Lombardzyde and Zebrugg. Our troops suffered but slight damage from this bombardment, but a number of Belgian villagers were killed and injured. Otherwise no actual changes have occurred in the West."

The following information was given out today by the Official Press Bureau: "While an eventual victory for the Teutonic allies in the Eastern theater of war is expected as confidently as ever, official reports from the German and Austrian military headquarters make it appear that a decision will not be reached as soon as had been expected. The final result has been delayed by the advances of new Russian forces from Warsaw. The tremendous extent of the battle now raging in the East is apparent from the fact that contacts are in progress along a front extending more than 80 miles between the positions on the extreme north and south."

"It is now announced that two of the armies, the eighth and sixth, under Gen. von Hindenburg, are commanded, respectively, by Gen. von Gronow and

For Mackenzie. Gen. Koch succeeds to the command of the first army corps.

German Develop Third Battle Front South of Warta.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 24.—The Russians, according to dependable news reaching Petrograd, appear to have halted the advancing German right wing along a line stretching from a point a few miles to the northwest of Lodz to the southwest of that city, at the same time forcing the evacuation of five towns in this locality.

In addition to the battle fronts already established, one to the northwest of the Warta and the other between the Warta and the Warta, the Germans are developing a third attacking column to the south of the Warta. Along this battle front they are advancing from the direction of Yalouin. It is impossible to estimate the strength of these three German columns, for the reason that behind the German frontier and a short distance from the rear of these forces, there is a constant shifting of the troops over the railroad running north and south between Thorn and Cracow.

The Russian general staff is silent as to the reported surrounding of Cracow and the commencement of the bombardment of that position. There are reports here showing that Russians have approached nearer than twenty miles to Cracow or that they have had sufficient success between Cracow and Czenstochowa to make it possible to envelop the city from that side.

Serbia From Premysl Throws Russian Back.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—An official statement issued by the Austrian general staff is contained in a telegram from Vienna, via Amsterdam, to Reuters' Telegram Co. It says:

"In Russian Poland still now there is no decision. We continue our attacks east of Czenstochowa and northeast of Cracow."

"While occupying Pilica (in Russian Poland, 25 miles north-northwest of Cracow), our troops captured 2400 Russians. The firing of our heavy artillery is of great effect. The Russian troops which had crossed the lower Dunajce were unable to proceed farther."

"The general situation has brought it about that some of the passes of the Carpathians were temporarily left in the hands of the enemy."

"On Friday a sortie from Premysl threw back the Russians from the west and southwest point of the fortress. The enemy is now out of range of our cannon."

Russians Vigorously Push Retreat.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The correspondent at Petrograd of the Matin says:

"The Russians, after having checked the German offensive on the Plock-Leczen front, gained on that side a brilliant decisive victory. The enemy, who had heavy losses, is driven with all speed toward the German frontier. An entire German regiment surrendered to the victors."

"The Russians are energetically pursuing the enemy."

"The Russians also are vigorously attacking along the Czenstochowa-Cracow line. This day seems to mark one of the most important decisive phases of the war."

Situation in the West Is Unchanged.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The official statement given out in Paris this afternoon says that, generally speaking, the situation yesterday showed no changes of importance. The text of the communication follows:

"Speaking generally, it may be said that the situation during the day of Nov. 23 has shown no important changes."

"Along the greater part of the front the enemy manifested his activity, particularly by an intermittent cannonade, which was, however, less spirited than on the preceding day. Nevertheless, there were here and there some infantry attacks, of which were repulsed. As we have come to expect, these attacks were particularly violent in the Argonne, where we gained some territory, and in the region of Four-de-Pari."

"There is nothing to report between the Argonne and the Vosges, and furthermore a very heavy fog has interfered with operations."

"The sanitary conditions of the troops are favorable."

"The statement issued last night by the war office said that yesterday there was cannonading in the direction of Soissons and Rheims, and in the Argonne there were violent attacks by both sides, which were without results."

Russians Drive Back Turks in Direction of Erzerum.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 24.—An official communication issued by the general staff of the Russian army in Caucasus under date of Nov. 23 says:

"In the direction of Erzerum, the advance guard of the Russian army continued to drive back the enemy after having thrown in disorder a Turkish column during which caissons and an ammunition train were captured."

"From Karakilisse to Alashkert Valley some engagements took place with results favorable to us."

"In the Persian Province of Azerbaijan, the Turks were defeated in the region of Khansayr Pass and also in the passes leading from Dilman in the direction of Kotor. In these engagements the Russian troops captured some Turkish artillery."

To Grow Hair on a Bald Head

BY A SPECIALIST.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair, who have tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, assisting hair from falling out and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair gray, and can be put up by any druggist: Buy 1/2 lb. of purest Castor Oil, 2 ounces of Methyl Crystalline, one-half drachm of purest Olive Oil, and 1 drachm of purest Rose Water. This preparation is highly nourishing, and promotes and stimulates hair, and is absolutely harmless. It contains no mercury, and is not a hair tonic, as so many people think.

East Prussian Refugees Returning to Their Ruined Homes

After the repulse of the Russians by Gen. von Hindenburg's army on its first invasion in mid-October, the refugees from the towns and small farms hastened to return to their homes, many of them to find only charred ruins on the spots where they had built their hearths.

Both Sides Playing on Bulgaria's Ambition in Balkans, Expert Writes

By the Military Expert of the New York Evening Sun.

Published in St. Louis exclusively in the Post-Dispatch by special arrangement with the Sun.

THE first Balkan alliance was the creation of Russian diplomacy.

It was the answer of Petrograd to the great stroke of Vienna in annexing Bosnia-Herzegovina and joining to this program the Bulgarian declaration of independence.

France, England and Russia protested against the Bosnian annexation, but Germany not merely supported it diplomatically, but with great brusqueness declared that she was prepared to sustain her Austrian ally by arms if necessary. As Russia, then, but recently done with her Manchurian war, was wholly unready for such a struggle, the Austrian purpose prevailed.

This victory for Austria was, however, fatal for the peace of Europe. Its first consequence was the Turkish-Italian war, for Italy had insisted on, and had received from Austria and Germany, permission to take Tripoli, as a counterweight to Austrian acquisitions in Bosnia. This war demonstrated to the world the weakness of the Ottoman Empire, and supplied an invitation to Serbia, Bulgaria and Greece to attack the defeated Sultan.

Barrier for Austria.

Meantime, Russia had submitted to the Bosnian rebuff merely because she was unprepared for war. On the morning of that humiliation her ministers in Sofia, in Belgrade, in Athens, took up the difficult task of building a Balkan confederacy which should, in fact, be a final barrier to Austrian ambition to advance from the Danube to the Aegean, from Semlin to Salonica.

The difficulties of such an undertaking were plain. Between Greece and Bulgaria, with their rivalries, and between Bulgaria and Serbia, with their mutual enmities, there was no possibility of preliminary agreement. Serbia and Bulgaria, too, were rivals for possession of Macedonia, between the Rhodopians and the Drin, which in the long past had been Serbian under Dushan and Bulgarian under Simon, and in recent times has become a no-man's land of the Comitadpis "bandits."

Yet it was plain that, despite all claims, Bulgarian language and sympathies had steadily extended their influence, and Russian diplomats were able to quiet Serbian appetite in Macedonia by holding out the promise of a "window on the sea" at Durazzo for the Serbians, and Scutari for the Montenegrins. In addition Serbia was to have the Sandjak of Novi Bazar, recently evacuated by Austria, in obedience to Italian insistence, and also Uskub, in the Slav tongue Skopje, the ancient capital of Stephan Dushan.

Balkan War's Start.

On this basis, and with an agreement to leave to the Czar the settlement of any disputes arising after the war, Bulgaria and Serbia struck hands and agreed, in a common struggle against the Turk, to forget the bitterness of Silivritza and the earlier war. Greece, in her turn, without written agreement, but with a prompt recognition of her interests, joined, and the first Balkan war began.

The collapse of Turkey was an immediate disaster for Austria. First, because the conquerors of the Ottoman empire were in fact acting under the guidance of Russia, second, because the creation of a strong Balkan confederacy, necessarily dominated by Serbia and Bulgarians, on her southern frontier, threatened to exercise upon the sympathies and loyalties of her Slavs the same influence that Serbian growth had exercised on Austria's Italian subjects more than half a century before.

It was necessary, then, for Austria to destroy the Balkan confederacy. She did it by flatly refusing to permit Serbia to hold Durazzo and Montenegro to take Scutari. Europe had then to choose between a general war, to sustain Serbia, and the sacrifice of Serbian hopes. Naturally it chose to sacrifice Serbia.

Quarrel Among Allies.

But Serbia, not Bulgaria, had taken Macedonia, Greece, and not Bulgaria, had taken Salonica. Accordingly, Serbia and Greece agreed to support each other. Serbia declined to keep her bargain with Bulgaria, pointing out that Europe had taken her share of the prize, and holding that in return for her labors, she was entitled to keep Monastir.

Desperate efforts on the part of the Czar to bring about a compromise between Serbia and Bulgaria were thwarted by the Austrians, who supported the Bulgarian and under Austrian advice the Bulgarians suddenly attacked both the Greeks and Serbs in Macedonia. But to the utter amazement of Austria, of Europe, they were promptly and decisively beaten and sent back over the mountains.

Bulgarian Dream Fades.

If Bulgaria were to defeat Serbia and Greece, she would acquire Macedonia, Salonica, retain Thracian almost to the gates of Constantinople, would in fact become the dominant state in the Balkans, the Prussia of a new confederacy, so Sofia already announced. Such being the prospect, Rumania suddenly joined Bulgaria's enemies, her armies crossed the Danube, and the Bulgarian dream was gone to ashes and ruin in a moment. As for Austria, she could not now help Bulgaria without making war upon Rumania, whose Hohenzollern sovereign claimed German protection and received it.

Thus Serbia and Greece divided Macedonia. Rumania took Bulgarian lands between the Danube and the Black Sea, and after terrific labors Bulgaria sank back in sullen anger, exhausted, but conquered only for the moment. Serbia, grown great by victory, sure now of Russian favor, marched forward openly on the road which led to Bosnia, to Dalmatia, to a southern Slav reorganization (revival) following an Austrian defeat. Such was the situation when the great war broke out. Now, when Germany is fighting for her life, Germany is striving to bring Bulgaria into line, promising to her revenge upon Greece and Serbia, with Turkey's aid, possession of Macedonia and most of all she lost in her great disaster.

Allies' Counter Effort.

Allied diplomacy, on the other hand, is endeavoring to restore the old Balkan confederacy. To achieve this, Serbia has been urged to add Kocchana, Istip, Radovista, the section of Macedonia east of the Vardar, to Bulgaria. The allies are ready to guarantee that Bulgaria shall have Thracian, including Adrianople, again. Noel Buxton, M. P., the most noted Bulgarianophile in England, has been sent to Sofia to speak for England. But so far, no further progress has been made than is indicated by the continued neutrality of Bulgaria.

Serbia, in return for her sacrifice to Bulgaria, is to have Bosnia, Herzegovina and a corner of Dalmatia. But this last detail brings in a new question. Italy looks with little favor upon Slav appearance upon the Adriatic. Thus Petrograd and Rome have for weeks been endeavoring to fix upon a "minimum" of Adriatic shore. Dispatches indicate that the coast from Gravosa, the terminus of the main Bosnian railway near Rusa, to the Drina, is to be the Slav window, with Italy consenting.

There remains Greece. As Austria, after the second Balkan War, forbade Scutari and Durazzo to the Slav, Italy ordered the Greek back from the Corfu Canal and the hinterland, which is the northern section of Epirus, largely Greek by language and Christian by religion. Now the Greek has reoccupied Northern Epirus, and Italy, having Avlona and the approval of the allies for her Albanian ambitions, has interposed no objection.

These circumstances give value to the dispatches of this morning that the Balkan confederacy is about to be reconstituted, that Bulgaria, Serbia, Greece and Rumania, with Italian approval, have completed a new distribution of territories south of the Danube. If this proves true, the effect upon the general situation will be great. For such a confederacy would have everything to gain by the defeat of Austria and Turkey.

It might also be the prelude to the appearance of Rumania and Italy, as well as the Balkan confederacy, on the side of the allies, for Italy still desires Trieste, the Trentino, Dalmatia, and Rumania desires Bukovina and Transylvania, and these are to be had only when Austria is defeated.

Lime Treatment in Tuberculosis

In the May 25, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared this statement concerning calcium (lime) medication in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption):

"Under the systematic, continued and persistent regime of calcium assimilation, Van Gieson has seen a number of his patients improve, whose anorexia, loss of weight, and general debility, which had been the result of the disease, had been relieved. Head in hand with this course of events, the sputum clears up, of tubercle bacilli, which finally disappear, and the patients are discharged with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

Ethical medical journals seldom speak so positively about a remedy, and this statement is so convincing that it has been taken up by many newspapers, and it does not irritate the stomach. Ordinary medicines and medicinal treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and its formation prevented, and the best thing for this purpose is a harmless, powerful, and safe, a simple antacid, taken in a little warm or cold water after eating, which not only neutralizes the acid, but also weakens the fermentation process which acidity is developed. Foods which which acidity is the result of, followed by a course of treatment, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.—ADV.

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist.

"Acid stomachs are dangerous because acid stimulates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to probably nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble from which people suffer. DETAILED REVIEW OF ALBIES' MOVES IN LAST 6 WEEKS

French Army Bulletin Declares German Plan to Reach Coast Has Failed.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The Bulletin Desarmes publishes a summary of the military operations of the last six weeks. This article says:

"With the fresh successes of the allies in the battle of Flanders, the moment has come to recite the accomplishments of the last six weeks. These may be summed up as follows:

"The formidable effort undertaken by the Germans during this time, first to turn our left wing and second to penetrate it, has resulted in failure. By this effort the enemy was endeavoring to make good his defeat on the Marne; instead, he only added another check to the one he suffered in September. Nevertheless, in order to flank us in accordance with his recognized method, the German general staff neglected nothing along that portion of the front extending from the River Lys to the sea. It massed between the beginning of October and the beginning of November four corps of cavalry and two armies, comprising in all 15 army corps."

Wanted to Annex Belgium.

"The Crown Prince of Bavaria, Gen. von Falken, Gen. von Demling, and the Duke of Wuertemberg, to stimulate the morale of their troops, issued several appeals and exhortations. We found their orders on officers who fell in battle or who were taken prisoners. All these documents agreed that it was a question of a decisive action against the French left. It was necessary to penetrate to Dunkirk or to Ypres for the reason, according to one of these orders, that the decisive blow yet was to be delivered. And this blow must be delivered with all speed. It is desired to obtain a decision in the Western arena of operations before again turning toward the adversary in the East. These various orders recited, furthermore, that Emperor William was there to animate his soldiers by his presence. He had announced that he wanted to be in Ypres on the first of November, and everything was prepared so that on that date there could be proclaimed the annexation of Belgium."

"In short, everything was provided for, every single thing except the victorious resistance of the allied army. To make this resistance possible it was necessary for us to oppose to the enemy, forces, if not equal to his own, at least sufficient."

"What was then the situation at the beginning of October? The Belgian army had come out of Antwerp intact, but too exhausted to take part in any maneuver. The English army was leaving its front on the Aisne for a field of operations in the North."

Reinforcements Sent North.

"Transportation and the movements of supplies occasioned long delays. The army under Gen. de Castelnau did not extend its left wing beyond a point south of Arras. The army of Gen. de Maunul extended from this point to the south of Lille. Further on we had cavalry, territorials and marine fusiliers. This force was not sufficiently strong to enable Gen. Foch, called by Gen. Joffre to take command of the armies in the north, to break the will of the enemy. Reinforcements were therefore sent him."

"Then for three weeks we saw the reign of the railroad and of the automobile. Day and night troops were being moved by these methods of transportation and they arrived in time. Divisions and army corps, not only strong numerically as some of the enemy, but sustained by an admirable spirit, moved into action as they disembarked from the train. For 30 days these divisions were at the front."

"About Oct. 30 our front was outlined as follows: From Nieuport to Dixmude, one of our divisions of infantry and our marines held the railroad line, while the Belgian army was reorganizing itself in the rear; to the south of Dixmude we were installed along the canal, and from here our line extended to the east, making in front of Ypres a vast semi-circle held by four corps of the French army and one corps of the Belgian army. The line then dropped to a point to the south of Messines and Armentieres, forming two segments. The first held by the remainder of the British army and the second by ourselves."

"The German attack was an effort first to occupy Dunkirk and reach Calais or Boulogne. They tried to flank us and to cut the direct communication of the British army with the sea coast."

"All the heavy artillery of the enemy brought from Antwerp was there, ready to be used again. Beginning Nov. 5 the attacks were repulsed. From the railroad we marched toward the Yser, rolling up the enemy, who had succeeded in crossing to the left bank of this stream, and drowning his rear guards in the floods. One can still see, near Ramscapella, German cannon half buried in the mud, and the corpses of German soldiers half submerged."

Desperate Battle of Ypres.

"Then the enemy, finding it impossible to get around our flank, endeavored to cut through. This was the battle of Ypres, an engagement desperate, furious and relentless, during which the German army hurled its units forward in dense masses without counting its losses, sacrificing everything in a desperate endeavor to attain its object. But the effort was in vain."

"For close to three weeks we stood up against repeated frantic assaults. Everyone of them was repulsed. Our front, with its circular formation, was not easy to hold, but, nevertheless, we were successful in keeping it intact."

"On the 30th of October the British troops, particularly the cavalry, had been obliged to withdraw for several hundred yards before a powerful onslaught of the enemy. Our troops, attacking in conjunction and at the same time with our allies, were successful in re-establishing the impassable barrier which closed the approaches to Ypres. That which was done here by our army corps, working in close harmony with the English corps which it encircled, is worthy of a place in the finest records of military history."

Positions Made Strong.

"On Nov. 12 the enemy had succeeded at a point north of Ypres, in crossing the canal over two bridges. By Nov. 12 he had been driven back to the other bank. Also on Nov. 12 the enemy had succeeded in occupying certain territory in the region to the south of Ypres. This territory was recaptured from him."

"On the 18th the attacks of the enemy grew less intense and our position, already strong, became impregnable. This result was obtained by the Belgian army, under the orders of Gen. d'Urbal, together with the participation of the armies of Gen. de Maunul and De Castelnau. These three armies constituted the group of armies under the command of Gen. Foch. The two last mentioned contributed brilliantly to our success by repulsing all the attacks directed against them and by occupying, between the Oise and the Lys, several positions of importance."

King Albert Needs Hair Cut; His Smile Missing for Weeks

SIEGEL, BANKRUPT MERCHANT PRINCE, SENTENCED TO JAIL

Jury Finds Him Guilty of Misdemeanor in Obtaining Loan on False Statement;
10 Months' Prison Term
Stayed Until June; Fined $1000.

GIVEN A CHANCE TO REPAY CREDITORS

If Substantial Amount Is Not Returned, Man Who Began Career at $3.50 a Week Will Have to Serve
Time in Prison.

GENESEO, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Henry Siegel of the Fourteenth street store, New York, was found guilty last night of a misdemeanor in obtaining a loan from the National Bank of Commerce on a false credit statement. Justice Clark immediately sentenced Siegel to pay a fine of $1000 and serve 10 months in jail. The prison sentence was stayed until the second Monday of next June, to give Siegel an opportunity to repay his creditors. Siegel is to put up $5,000 bail to appear in Geneseo at that time.

When Siegel was called to the bar by Mr. Lovell, one of his attorneys, he refused to appear for a moment as he sat from his chair. In answer to Justice Clark's first question, he shook his head to indicate he had nothing to say by sentence should not be passed upon by Attorney Train for the defense of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney and said they had nothing to say.

Hope to Make Payment.
Mr. Siegel, I understand you have a hope of repaying your debtors, is that right? The court asked.

Hope to earn it, Siegel answered, almost in a whisper.

"I understand you have hope of being able to make a substantial payment to your debtors within the next few months. Is that correct?"

"I have promises, I hope to make a substantial payment," Siegel replied after conferring with Stanchfield.

"The verdict was fully justified," Justice Clark then said. "This ought to be a lesson to you never to make false credit statements or try to get anything of value under false pretenses."

Fined $1000; Jail Sentence Stayed.
"I sentence you to pay a fine of $1000 and be confined in the Monroe County jail for a period of 10 months, but I will stay the sentence until the second Monday of next June. You must give a bond of $5,000 for your appearance here then and the jail sentence will then be carried out, if you have not made good the promise you have made here tonight to your debtors."

Siegel, who was nervous and affected by emotion during the proceedings, while sentence was being pronounced.

Train asked that Siegel be taken into custody by the Sheriff until new bail could be arranged.

"He has no intention of fleeing the jurisdiction," protested Stanchfield.

"He tried to do it once," retorted Train.

However, Justice Clark paroled the convicted man in custody of his counsel. Siegel went to his hotel and retired. He will leave Geneseo today.

Foreman J. S. Mackay and the other jurors refused to discuss their verdict. It became known, however, that the jury took three ballots and disregarded the fourth charge from the start.

There are other indictments against Siegel, but they may never be prosecuted.

Train Secures Siegel in Speech.
"If Siegel had been an honorable man," Assistant District Attorney Arthur C. Train said, "he would have gone into bankruptcy long ago. But he didn't. Instead, with his dirty enterprises in mind, he allowed the middle class people, as he called them, to put their money into his bank, that he might flood it into his store. He kept eight days of the failure there was not a penny of a shop girl too insignificant to be placed in his hands."

Stanchfield in his speech to the jury referred to Siegel as a victim of circumstances, full of faith in his ventures. He dwelt on Siegel's personal loss and his desire to go to Chicago and there set out in life again and pay back the debtors in his bank dollar for dollar.

Henry Siegel was known for many years in New York, Boston and Chicago as a "self-made" merchant prince. He was born in Germany and was one of a family of 10 boys, all of whom came to the United States.

Henry Siegel arrived in New York July 12, 1867. He went to Washington and became a clerk in a store at $3.50 per week.

He at once began attending night school and in four years had acquired a fair education and a salary of $15 a week. Soon after he worked for a brother-in-law, Pa. and worked for a brother-in-law, Pa. and worked for a brother-in-law, Pa.

Success in Chicago was followed by the establishment of stores in Boston and New York, and the Siegel system grew until it became too intricate for success.

Siegel was married twice. His first wife died and the second wife, who sued him for divorce a short time after the bankruptcy action began, was the widow of George Wilde, a St. Louis broker. They have been separated four years.

Lenox Hall Girl Taken From Husband on Wedding Day

ELOPER LOVES HER HUSBAND NOT LESS, BUT MOTHER MORE

Mrs. Nolle Fears Sliger, 16,
Parted From Bridegroom After Marriage, Prefers Parent Now.

Mrs. Nolle Fears Sliger, a 16-year-old bride, is at her home, 533 Hamilton avenue, struggling "twixt love and duty." Plainly her duty, she thinks, is to be with her husband, Frank Sliger, 22 years old, of 5500 Clemens avenue. But the child-bride also loves her mother, who has forbidden the girl to communicate with her husband. In fact, her mother, Mrs. William Walsh, has stated she would take steps to have the marriage annulled.

News of the elopement of Miss Fears, who was a student at Lenox Hall, and its resultant complications has just become known to her friends.

Miss Fears met Sliger about a year ago, having been introduced by her sister, Peggy Fears, a professional dancer, who has appeared in cabarets here. She had been studying art and languages at Lenox Hall, but on Nov. 5, she told a reporter today, she "bummed from school" met Sliger at lunch down town and completed arrangements for the elopement the following day.

Married in Springfield.
The next day she left home, ostensibly for school. Instead she met Sliger and they went on an interurban car to Springfield, Ill., where they were married shortly before noon. Returning home at 8 p. m., the girl was asked where she had been. Then the bride and bridegroom "broke the news to mother."

She immediately informed Sliger her daughter was too young to be married. Then she told her daughter she could not live with Sliger. The latter departed for his home. Mrs. Walsh packed suit, cases and next day was on her way with her daughter to Independence, Kan., where they visited a week with Mr. Walsh, who is resident manager there for a cash register company.

Since they returned to St. Louis, the bride said, her husband had made several efforts to converse with her by telephone, but her mother had forbidden such conversations. She told a reporter in the absence of her mother, that she has made no effort to go to her husband because she knows her mother would compel her to return home.

"I love my husband," she said, "but I'm following mother's wishes and will not go to him."

Mrs. Sliger said her husband was associated with his father, Frank B. Sliger, superintendent and secretary of the Knights of Honor, in the Delmar Building.

FOOTBALL HURTS RECRUITING; PRESS IN LONDON AROUSED

"Eradicate the Football Cancer," the Pall Mall
Gazette Demands.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Indignation against the hitherto universally popular game of football is expressed by nearly the entire British press today, because almost no men enlisted as a result of the recruiting rallies at Saturday's matches. "It is time to eradicate the football cancer," says the Pall Mall Gazette in an article which goes on to say that not a single man was recruited at London's principal football match, which was attended by 150,000 spectators.

A Colonel who lost a son at the front, and was himself returning to the firing line, appeared at this game, says the paper, and pleaded with the men to enlist.

"As a soldier I ask you," said the Colonel. "I say come, your country needs you."

Then his words were drowned by shouts when the teams came on the field, continues the paper, which adds that in other parts of the country, stolid refusal greeted the bands of speakers and recruiting officers. No recruits were obtained at Birmingham, where 70,000 spectators attended a match, and no one was recruited at Brighton.

The Evening Standard says the total result of the countryside movement was one recruit.

"If football such a passion that nothing on earth can stop it," says the Standard, "vigorous youth should be powerfully persuaded that this is not the time for the development of any passion save love of country."

The Westminster Gazette says there is only one way in which the football association can put itself right in the eyes of the public, and that is by discontinuing its program.

Gen. Hughes Says 100,000 Americans Have Offered Service.

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—One hundred thousand men in the United States have offered to enlist in Canada for military service in Europe, according to Maj. Gen. Hughes, Canadian Minister of Militia. He made the statement to the Canadian Club today in reply to questions regarding the theory that Germans in the United States might attempt a raid across the border.

Maj. Gen. Hughes said he was in favor of accepting the men who had offered themselves. Hundreds of Americans, he asserted, are already with the first and second contingents.

Inquiry Made Into Alleged Recruiting in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—An investigation of alleged attempts to recruit Chicagoans for the Canadian expeditionary force is being made by District Attorney Charles F. Clyne, who today ordered Edward Jacobs and Gustav Bachman to appear before him to sign statements telling how they were inveigled, it is charged, into a trip from Chicago to Winnipeg two months ago. The men say they understood they were to get employment on a ship. At Winnipeg they were taken to Fort Osborne, and an effort was made to recruit them, they assert. When they refused to swear allegiance to King George, they were left stranded, according to their story.

Bachman and Jacobs were approached, it is said, by James T. Deacon, who they say is the local representative of Capt. Eugene H. Haughton of Winnipeg. Deacon, in a letter which now is in the hands of Government agent, admits, it is said, to acting as a recruiting agent, but insisted the two men were aware they were to enter the army.

"Ever since the war began I have received reports of British recruiting in the United States," said Baron von Selevitz, German Consul in Chicago. "I have had investigators working on supposed instances of recruiting and have called the attention of the German Ambassador to the case of Bachman and Jacobs. I understand the State Department already is investigating the affair."

Presidents or secretaries of organizations may obtain a number of dolls for their members to dress.

With this article is a coupon which should be filled out by any girl or woman or organization who wishes to aid and will agree to dress dolls. Fill out this coupon with name and address and the dolls will be sent from the Post-Dispatch. When the dolls are dressed they will be collected. It would lighten our labors very much and be most satisfactory all around if organizations of girls or women would agree to dress a number of dolls. They might have doll dressing bees, doll sewing parties. Such affairs could be made very enjoyable.

Young Women to Dress Dolls.
Already the pupils in a shorthand school and the young ladies in a large insurance company's office have agreed to dress numbers of dolls.

The Post-Dispatch offers prizes for the best dressed dolls. There will be five prizes, each of FIVE DOLLARS GOLD. Every doll received will be inspected by a board of competent needlewomen, who will pick out the five dolls they think are the best dressed of all those received. Not the most expensively dressed. That will not do at all. But the most beautiful work will win the prizes.

Christmas Tree for Children.
This is one of the works of preparation for the great holiday festival—the fifteenth—which is given annually at the Coliseum by the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival Association.

There will be a Christmas tree for the children, with gifts for all, a Christmas pantomime given by the Pageant and municipal playground workers. Baskets of food will be sent to the homes of needy families, insuring a beautiful feast in the home and a dinner will be spread for homeless men. All the charitable organizations, of all creeds and nations in the city, unite in seeing that every needy family is supplied and all the children who have no Christmas festivities at home are invited to the Coliseum.

Much money is needed to carry on this work and Post-Dispatch readers are asked to send whatever contributions they feel able to make. Every dollar—and every cent—will be gratefully received on behalf of the Christmas Festival Association and acknowledged in the Post-Dispatch.

Who Will Dress Dolls to Be Given to Little Girls at the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival? Five Prizes of $5 Each for Best Work on Costumes

This is the undressed doll. It is 12 inches long, has real hair, eyes that open and shut and is jointed.

Who will dress a doll? There are war in the countries toys come from, war that is using up the men who make the things we have been importing. Dolls are imported from the war countries; there are very few of them coming over and only small stocks in the wholesale houses on this side.

The Post-Dispatch has, however, succeeded in securing a large number of undressed dolls for the Christmas Festival at the Coliseum on Christmas day. They are to be given to little girls who will be guests of the Festival Association.

Who Will Dress a Doll For the Poor Children's Christmas Tree?

THE Post-Dispatch has bought a quantity of undressed dolls to be given to girl guests of the Christmas Festival at the Coliseum on Christmas Day. The dolls are 12 inches long, are jointed, have bisque heads, eyes that open and shut, brown or blonde hair, pink or blue kid shoes.

We want volunteers to dress these dolls, as every woman knows the clothes are as necessary to the gift as the doll body. If YOU will dress a doll write your name and address below and send it to the DOLL DEPARTMENT, POST-DISPATCH. CAMPBELL WILL SUIT HEARING IS ON IN NEW YORK

Depositions of Financier's Former Associates Taken to Show His Mental Capacity.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Depositions in the suit of the blood relatives of the late James Campbell to break his will were taken before Notary J. J. Tierney in the offices of Sullivan & Cromwell, 40 Wall street, on an order issued by Circuit Judge Ranssieur of St. Louis today. The contestants were represented by L. Frank Ottery, Mrs. Campbell by Morton Jourdan, St. Louis University by E. V. P. Schneiderhahn, and the Mercantile Trust Co. by Richard L. Goode.

Campbell willed a life interest in his estate, which was valued at something over $10,000,000, to his widow and his daughter, Lois, now Mrs. Elzey G. Burkham, the estate eventually to go to the medical school of St. Louis University.

Three Witnesses Heard.
Three witnesses testified at the morning session of the hearing here today. They were John F. Harris of Harris, Winthrop & Co., brokers; Edmund C. Converse, bank president and former Steel Trust director, and Henry H. Pierce of Sullivan & Cromwell.

The questions all were aimed to establish Campbell's mental capacity at the time his will was made and up to the time of his death.

Mr. Lavelle is expected to bring to the hearing and attest a copy of Lois Campbell's baptismal certificate.

Ottery opened the hearing by an inspection of the Notary's commission, whereupon, as soon as the first witness, John F. Harris, was sworn, Ottery filed a formal objection to the hearing on the grounds the commission was insufficient and the laws of the State of New York forbade the taking of testimony in a case not yet at issue.

Ottery makes many objections. Jourdan began the examination of the witness, who explained he was a member of the firm of Harris, Winthrop & Co. Harris told a close personal and business acquaintance with Campbell during 1913. He was a freely responsive witness and brought forth a continuous line of objections from Ottery, who wanted nearly every answer stricken out as unresponsive and as being mere expressions of opinion.

His testimony was to the effect that he had high regard for Campbell's mental and physical condition. He said he heard his opinion on the defense paid to Campbell at board meetings by other business associates.

Ottery attempted to make Harris admit that his observation of Campbell had been merely casual, such as would prevail between men who meet occasionally at board meetings.

Harris testified that at some indefinite period within two years of the date of Campbell's death he had discussed with Campbell the disposition of the Campbell estate and that he had suggested that it be left to some hospital purpose and that Campbell had assented.

Spoke Affectionately of Daughter.
Ottery asked whether Campbell had ever intimated he thought his daughter should be penalized for her mother's fault. Judge Goode objected and Harris testified Campbell never had spoken of his daughter except in terms of affection. Ottery did make plain the purpose of his question.

Edmund C. Converse, a neighbor of Campbell in Greenwich, Conn., said he had acted three or four times on Campbell's advice in business matters and always with profit. He said he had regarded Campbell as of exceptional mental capacity.

The cross-examination brought out that Converse had bought American Light and Traction stock on Campbell's advice last fall and was content with the advance.

Tells of Deal With Campbell.
Henry H. Pierce of New York City, a lawyer and a member of the firm of Sullivan & Cromwell, was examined by Judge Goode. He knew Campbell from 1898 until his death. During the last four years he saw Campbell almost daily while he was in New York, which was about half his time, and had visited him in St. Louis and stopped at his home. His firm, Pierce said, represented the North American and its subsidiary companies and that he was a member of the North American board and he had almost daily business conferences with Campbell.

He said that he regarded Campbell's physical condition as robust and that he thought he was one of the soundest-minded men with whom he had ever come in contact. This condition, he said, prevailed in November and December, 1913, and to his knowledge continued up till May, 1914.

Never Talked of Religion.
In the afternoon Caleb W. Hamill, a banker, testified. He knew Campbell 12 years, he said, and had frequent occasions to discuss business matters with him up to 1914.

He regarded Campbell's mind as one of the keenest and best balanced business minds he had ever had to do with, he said.

In the cross-examination of Hamill, Ottery introduced a new question in asking if Campbell had ever discussed with him a fear of punishment after death. The question was in line with another as to whether he had ever discussed religious matters, which was asked all the witnesses. None of them had ever heard Campbell discuss religion in any phase.

30 NEW DIPHTHERIA CASES; TOTAL FOR 5 WEEKS IS 576

Thirty-One School Children Have Been Taken Ill With Disease Since Sunday.

SITUATION IS UNCHANGED

Retail Druggists Explain How 5000 Units of Serum Cost From $5 to $5.62 1/2.

Thirty new cases of diphtheria were reported today at the office of Dr. M. C. Woodruff, chief diagnostician of the Health Department. This was four more than the number of new cases reported yesterday. The total for five weeks is 576. Since Nov. 1 there have been 446 cases. Dr. W. S. Lawrence, assistant to Dr. Woodruff, said the situation was unchanged.

Dr. James Stewart, hygiene supervisor for the Board of Education, said reports of 21 new cases of school children had been received by him. Part of these were cases reported yesterday to the Health Department. Dr. Stewart expressed confidence that there would be improvement in the situation in a few days.

Druggists Deny Low Serum Price. Public statements of Dr. Woodruff that retail druggists are making an exorbitant profit on the sale of diphtheria serum, and that there is a combination of manufacturers and retailers to demand high prices for the remedy, are denied by the Retail Druggists' Association.

Dr. Woodruff has state publicly several times that the city buys the antitoxine for $1.25 per 500 units and that retail druggists buy it for $3.50 per 4000 units and sell it for $7.50. Dr. W. A. Hoelscher, president of the Retail Druggists' Association, when asked if this was true, said it was not. He explained the retail druggists pay the manufacturers from $5 to $6.25 for the 5000 units which they sell for $7.50. This leaves them a profit of 25 to 33-1/3 per cent, from which must be deducted the percentage of "overhead" expense chargeable against that particular item of the retail druggist's business.

The "overhead" represents the fixed expenses of the business, which are deducted, on a percentage basis, from the proceeds of all sales. The "overhead" varies in different localities. In some instances it is said to be upward of 25 per cent.

The uniform price fixed by the manufacturers, Dr. Hoelscher explained, is $7.50 per 5000 units. The discount to retailers is 25 per cent by some manufacturers and 33-1/3 per cent by others. That brings the price down to $5 and $6.25, according to the amount of the discount. The retailer sells it at $7.50.

The druggists, in order to have on hand a seasonably complete assortment of serums of different strengths, ranging from 500 to 5000 units to the bottle, Dr. Hoelscher explained, must carry from $25 to $50 worth of it in stock. It requires special care. It has to be kept in a cool place or of ice. The demand for it is very light during three-fourths of the year. Only when there is an epidemic is there a reasonable demand. The average druggist does not sell more than $20 worth of it in a year.

The serum deteriorates in two or three months and, although it is replaced by the manufacturers without cost, there is the trouble of keeping a close watch on it and exchanging the deteriorated quantity for a fresh supply.

The present diphtheria situation is not due to the high price of the serum nor to the difficulty of poor persons getting it, Hoelscher says. Persons who cannot afford to buy it are still by doctors and druggists to the Health Department, where it is furnished to them free.

The city is able to get the serum at a very low price because it takes practically the entire output of one manufacturer. The manufacturer who supplies the city avoids the loss of exchanging fresh serum for that which has deteriorated because the city uses such quantities that there is small chance for it to deteriorate.

WHY MEN GET DRUNK

COLUMBUS, Ind., Nov. 24.—A survey of the causes that take men into the City Court here shows that toothache is to blame more than anything else. Next to "toothache" is a "heavy cold" and "stomach trouble" runs a poor third.

Nearly every man who is arrested on an intoxication charge has some such excuse. There are a few, however, who admit they get drunk just to be drunk and have no excuse to offer.

tration camps.

"He told them that every Moslem girl in India, when she arrives at the age of 14, must be surrendered to the British Commander for seven weeks. He also told them that any British subject in India can pick up any Moslem and compel him to serve as body servant for one year. He told them that in Egypt any Christian Egyptian man can demand of any Moslem Egyptian the loan of his wife or daughter for seven weeks, and if the Moslem refuses the penalty is death.

"When they came to our country,
these Prussians came as educators, ministers of the Gospel, medical instructors and peaceful merchants. For ten years they assiduously contrived to undermine our opinion against all Europe with the exception of Austria and Germany. They came under all garbs and in many disguises. On every high plateau their industrialies of the Gospel built churches and convents which were walled with ciment and steel. All these establish-since the beginning of the gigantic struggle in Europe.

CONDUCTOR IS FOUND UNCONSCIOUS ON CAR

Said to Have Concussed
Brain; Motorman Ran
Liner to Sheds.

Ira Stone, 25 years old, of the New Regent Hotel, a conductor on the Market street car line, was found unconscious by the motorman, Frank Noelker, of 414 Chouteau avenue, when the car, emptied of passengers, neared the western terminus of the line at 6:30
p. m. yesterday.
Noelker, getting no bell signals from

Stone, turned and saw the conductor lying on the floor in the compartment at the rear. Noelker ran the car to the shed at Compton and Laclede avenues, where Stone was taken to the city hospital. There physicians said he seemed to be suffering from electric shock and concussion of the brain.
Earlier in the day the car had collided with an ice wagon driven by Charles Venegolin of 3301 Shaw avenue, throwing Venegolin to the ground. The man told the police the car crew were not to blame.

PULITZER ESTATE IS ORDERED REAPPRAISED

Assessment on Trust Funds
Under Recent Decision Will Increase Taxes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Surrogate Col-ahan has ordered a reappraisal of the estate of Joseph Pulitzer, because Appraiser Joseph I. Berry fixed no tax on the trust funds established in the will.
This was due to the fact that at the time the report was filed the law was fixed by a decision of the Appellate Division, which provided that taxes should not be collected on trust funds until they actually came into possession of the legatees.

Since that time the Court of Appeals has reversed the Appellate Division ruling, holding that a tax may be fixed at the highest rate possible, and if contingencies arise under which a lower rate is proper, the estate will get a rebate.
The effect of the decision on the Pulitzer estate will increase the amount to be paid now many thousands of dollars.

GIRL HAS FATHER HELD

Makes Charge of Abuse After He Causes Her Arrest.

Florence Palmer, 14 years old, arrested last night at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Helen Palmer of 443 Apderson avenue, at the request of her father, Fred Palmer of 1427 Arsenal street, told the police a story of in-treatment which resulted in the arrest of her father.
The latter, who is 39 years old and a painter, said his daughter was incorri-ble and would not remain at home.
She said she could not submit to a continuation of the abuse to which he had subjected her. He denied her charge.

Parents Here Receive Letter From U. S. Gunboat Paymaster. A letter received by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Byrne of 111 Laurel street from their son, John A. Byrne, Paymaster of the United States gunboat

Scorpion, stationed in the Mediterranean near Constantinople, speaks of the difficulty of obtaining adequate information there of the progress of the war in Europe. All the news received there is so strictly censored, he says, that everyone feels very much in the dark. Byrne and his wife, who was Miss Dorothy Duffy, daughter of Mr. and

INVESTIGATION OF PATRICK'S PARDON IS UNDER WAY

District Attorney Whitman of New York Inquires Into Allegations in Affidavits.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—After District Attorney Whitman had begun yesterday afternoon an investigation of the circumstances of the granting of a pardon on Nov. 27, 1913, by John A. Dix, then Governor of New York, to Albert T. Patrick, who was serving a life sentence at Sing Sing for the murder of William Marsh Rice, former Gov. Dix said: "I attended to the Patrick case. I have no fears as to any investigation. The investigation was begun after two affidavits had been filed with the District Attorney concerning published statements that Joseph Walker Jr., a Wall street banker, had offered to obtain Patrick's pardon if John T. Milliken of St. Louis, Patrick's brother-in-law, would join him in a mining deal. The affidavits filed were made by George C. Goodrich and wife, Mrs. Anna S. Goodrich, and related their version of what transpired at a meeting here of themselves and Milliken on March 23, 1913.

Conference With Assistant. Inasmuch as the statute of limitations would become operative within three days from yesterday, Assistant District Attorney Delehanty, who was placed in charge of the investigation, was instructed to use all possible expedient. Whitman conferred with Delehanty for more than an hour and announced that if the facts warranted, the matter would be placed before the grand jury. It was understood that he would not ask for an indictment unless corroboration were obtained of the affidavits already published. Former Gov. Dix said yesterday that he had pardoned Patrick solely for the sake of his children. He repeated his previous denial of the report that he had pardoned Patrick at the request of Walker.

Patrick Denies Allegations Concerning His Pardon. TULSA, Ok., Nov. 24.—Albert T. Patrick, engaged in the oil business here, yesterday gave out a statement denying the charges made concerning the granting of his pardon. He declared that the giving of an option on mining property by his brother-in-law, John T. Milliken of St. Louis, to a New York banking firm had nothing to do with his (Patrick's) pardon by Gov. Dix and that it was a financial transaction that "appealed to Milliken on his own merits."

Patrick denied that he ever knew George C. Goodrich, who is said to have made the charges, and declared that his pardon by Gov. Dix was based solely on his innocence of the charge of murdering Rice.

CABINET SEATS IN HOUSE CONSIDERED BY THE PRESIDENT

Leaders Also Propose That Executive Use Right to Sit in Senate Secret Sessions.

ADVANTAGES POINTED OUT

Object Would Be to Draw Two Divisions of Government into Closer Co-operation.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Two plans designed to bring the executive and the legislative branches of the Government into closer touch are being considered tentatively by President Wilson and his Cabinet and some of the more important leaders in Congress.

One plan is for the President's personal attendance at executive sessions of the Senate during the consideration of nominations and treaties. The other is for the participation by members of the Cabinet in the proceedings of the House of Representatives.

The President already has the right to attend executive sessions of the Senate. Regarding the proposition to have his Cabinet attend sessions of the House, the President has not yet taken so kindly to the proposed change. On three occasions bills amending the House rules to accomplish the project have been favorably reported by the Senate. The House itself has not taken so kindly to the proposed change.

The right of the President to take part in the executive proceedings of the Senate is clearly established by rule XXXVI of the standing rules of the Senate, which reads:

"When the President of the United States shall meet the Senate in the Senate chamber for the consideration of executive business, he shall have a seat at the right of the presiding officer. When the Senate shall be convened by the President of the United States to any other place, the presiding officer of the Senate and the Senators shall attend at the place appointed, with the necessary officers of the Senate."

There is no question but that the right of the President to sit with the Senate during secret proceedings carries with it the privilege of verbally presenting his reasons in support of a treaty proposed by the executive department or of his nominations to public offices. It is not probable that the President would care to do so except in extreme cases. It is pointed out, for instance, that he might desire to make known to the Senators direct his reasons for recommending the ratification of treaties which he would not convey in a public memorandum or make known through a spokesman, now the custom.

Objections to Change Likely.
 A case in point was provided last April, when the Senate hung up the nomination of Winthrop Moore Daniels of New Jersey to the Interstate Commerce Commission. The President's friends in the Senate made reasonably clear the President's confidence in Daniels. The nomination was confirmed after three weeks' opposition. The administration believes that Daniels would have been confirmed sooner had the President made known his reason for desiring it.

If the President desires to recommend seats in the House for the members of his Cabinet there probably will go out from that body a complaint, accompanied by charges that a Democratic form of Government is aspiring to royal institutions.

The British Parliament not only provides seats for the Ministers, but permits them the fullest latitude in presenting their reasons or those of the Government in support of or opposition to legislation.

The House of Commons finds this method of invaluable service in reaching an understanding on Government projects. The Ministers hold themselves in readiness to answer any questions members may desire to ask. Some of the most instructive and entertaining debates that enliven Parliament develop from members quizzing the various heads of his Majesty's Government. The result is that the House obtains full information on the subject under consideration.

President's Humorous Remarks.
 Neither the President nor any member of his Cabinet has publicly expressed the opinion that the attention of Congress should be invited to the advisability of adopting, with modifications, the project to give Cabinet officers seats in the Lower House. Much will probably be heard about it after Congress meets.

During a recent discussion of the subject the President is said to have expressed humorously the opinion that "the presence of members of the Cabinet in the House would certainly increase the circulation of our esteemed contemporary, the Congressional Record."

Opinion of Senator Stone.
 "I do not think anyone would be likely to object if the President desired to meet with the Senate in executive session," said Senator Stone, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. "Special provision is made in the rules of the Senate for his attending executive sessions. There might be occasions when the President desired to impart in person to the Senate his view of important international matters, when it would be highly commendable for him to meet with the Senate in executive session. I do not suppose for a minute that the President would be present, however, when any vote was taken on a treaty, or that he would appear in the Senate when that body was considering nominations made by him."

Senator Borah's Attitude.
 Senator Borah said: "As to the President's sitting in executive sessions of the Senate relative to treaties and nominations, there is no particular reason why he should not do so, so far as the Constitution is concerned. But as a matter of practice, I prophesy it would not be long continued."

As to the proposition of the Cabinet's sitting with the House, if this is to be, then I am in favor of the election of the Cabinet by a popular vote. I am opposed to any man's sitting in the legislative halls, having anything to do with shaping legislation, who does not come accredited through a popular vote. If it is deemed expedient or practicable to elect heads of the departments, with the knowledge upon the part of the people that they are to be lawmakers in a certain sense, well and good; we'll try it, and adjust our Constitution so that we may do it."

How to Have Red Lips!

The girl with red lips and pink cheeks may be thankful, for both denote health—vigorous, forceful, masculine health, and while it may be impossible for some to attain owing to morbid states or health, yet a vast majority of seemingly healthy young women and men are almost colorless, because of a lack of red blood corpuscles. When the blood is improved and enriched with these red corpuscles, the weight increases and a beautiful tint appears on the cheeks, while the lips assume a healthy red color. Many physicians and beauty doctors prescribe three-grain hypophosphoric tablets which are said to increase the red blood corpuscles after a course of treatment lasting several months. The nervous system and general health also improve rapidly. The best physicians and apothecary shops supply this tablet in sealed packages.—ADVER-TISEMENT.

PRIEST WHO WAS SHOT REFUSES TO PROSECUTE

Assistant Circuit Attorney Told
That the Rev. Father Casu
Has Forgiven Assailant.

When John Pansechi of 1019 Franklin avenue appeared in court today, charged with having shot the Rev. Father Nicola Casu, assistant to the Rev. Father Casu, pastor of the Church of Our Lady Help of Christians, Father Spigardi told Assistant Circuit Attorney

McDaniel that Father Casu had recovered from his wound, had forgiven Pansechi and had no desire to prosecute the prisoner.

McDaniel said he could not discuss the case until he talked with Circuit Judge Bennings. Later Father Spigardi repeated his statement to the judge, who told him he would accept a dismissal of the case on the recommendation of the Circuit Attorney's office.
The Rev. Casu was shot while visiting Nathalie DeMouire, who lives at the Franklin avenue house, who called to him while he was passing by.

GRAVOIS BANK ROBBER READY TO PLEAD GUILTY

George W. Finch Waives Preliminary Hearing; Wants to Begin Sentence at Once.

George W. Finch of 323 Washington avenue, who was captured by Constable Bohring the afternoon of Nov. 13, while he was robbing the Gravois Bank,
at Gravois and Selbert avenues, waived preliminary hearing before Justice
Morgner in Luxembourg today.

His attorney, B. L. Matthews, announced that as soon as an information was prepared by the Prosecuting Attorney, Finch would enter a plea of guilty and go to the penitentiary immediately.

SATURDAY TO BE "TAG DAY" TO AID HOSPITAL CHARITY

Women Will Also Sell Flowers for Benefit of Patients Who Cannot Pay.

Next Saturday will be "Tag day" in St. Louis. Women will be stationed at all public buildings and office buildings to sell tags and flowers for the benefit of the charity patients in St. Louis hospitals. On Sunday collections will be taken in the churches for the same purpose.

The Hospital Saturday and Sunday association, through David R. Francis, the president, has issued an appeal to the public to contribute liberally this year, announcing that there are several institutions which will be compelled to close if they do not have the usual assistance from the public.

The appeal states that since the organization of the association, in 1908, it has collected and distributed $28,100.19 to hospitals, the only administrative expenses being postage, stationery and clerk hire for a few weeks before each annual collection. There are no salaries of officers.

During the 11 years the association has been collecting money it has aided 19 institutions. Two of these are discontinued. The money collected is distributed to the hospitals in the proportion that the hospitals receive charity patients.

At a conference of representatives of hospitals recently, announcement was made that if the hospitals did not receive the usual money from the association this year all would be forced to curtail their charity work, and some of them would probably find it impossible to continue receiving charity patients.

Last year the association distributed $40,000. Of this $20,000 was distributed to 12 hospitals admitted to membership in the association. Two other institutions were assisted with donations aggregating $800.

Society

DEBUTANTE of the season who will have her share in all the affairs planned for the buds is Miss Nancy Bates, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Bates of 435 Westminster place, and, although Mrs. Bates is not entertaining this winter on account of the death of her brother, William Maffitt, several months ago, quite a number of parties will be given for Miss Nancy by members of her family.

Mrs. Edward J. Walsh will give a large reception at her residence, 4359 Westminster place, and in Miss Nancy's honor, on Dec. 4, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Papin of 4618 Berlin avenue will give a small dinner dance for her at the Woman's Club, Dec. 8.

Mrs. Bates and her daughter, Miss Julia Bates, who was presented to society last winter, are expected home next week from the East, where they have been since closing their summer home at Lake Placid and, upon their return, the date for a luncheon which the Misses Bates will give for the debutantes will be announced.

Mrs. Breckinridge Jones of 46 Portland place will give a reception from 7 o'clock today to introduce her second daughter, Miss Mary D. Jones, to society. Miss Jones is considered one of the beauties of the season. She was the first prospect to the Queen at the Villed'Arche ball, and is one of the most charming of the buds.

The decorations will be in Ophelia roses, a new variety something like the pink Killarney and very lovely.

Receiving with the hostess will be the debutante and Miss Frances Reid Jones, who made her bow about three seasons ago.

Serving will be Misses Kitty Guy, Nancy Scott, Nancy Bates, Edith Whittemore, Cora Pittman and Ruth Bixby, all debutantes of this season, and Miss Carol O'Fallon Miller, all of whom will go on to the Pettus dance later.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius S. Walsh Jr., who are occupying the Joseph L. Chambers house at 2808 Erie street this afternoon, are giving a dance this afternoon. Their guests include the young married set and a number of the debutantes of this year and last.

Mrs. Robert D. Patterson of 5336 Washington boulevard will give a bridge luncheon Dec. 2 in honor of her niece, Miss Cora Pittman, the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Davies Pittman.

Mr. and Mrs. August A. Busch's ball to present their daughter, Miss Clara Busch to St. Louis society will be given Dec. 18 and not Dec. 4, as previously announced. It will be at Sunset Hill Country Club and will be one of the most elaborate social affairs of the season.

The Queen's Daughters will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their organization Dec. 4, 5 and 6 at their home at 3730 Lindell boulevard. The celebration will open with a Christmas bazaar, followed by a special day for children, and will end on Sunday evening with entertainments by Archbishop Glennon and Father James T. Coffey. The proceeds of the bazaar will go toward paying the organization's share of the cost of cutting Locust street into Lindell boulevard.

Misses Katherine and Mimi Floyd-Jones, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Floyd-Jones of 4527 West Pine boulevard, entertained at luncheon today in honor of Miss Nancy Bates. The guests were Misses Nancy Scott, Elsa Zetzel, Kitty Guy, Ruth Bixby, Emilie Maffitt, Cabanne, Louise Knapp, Sunie Cabanne Smith, Cora Pittman, Marion Band, Edith Whittemore, Betty Whittemore, Mary D. Jones, Mildred Papin Lloyd, Nancy Bakewell, Juanita Wilkinson and Annie Laurie Warmack.

2 POLICEMEN AND MAN AND WOMAN IN LIVELY BATTLE

Both Sides Take and Retake
Nightsticks in Fast Fight
Until Couple Are Arrested.

ALL 4 ON CASUALTY LIST

Police, Attracted by Screams,
Went to Woman's Help, and Then She Turned on Them.

A lively fight accompanied the arrest of Charles Malone, 35 years old, a painter, and Mrs. Pauline Miller, 27, in the rear of Mrs. Miller's home, 1213 North Thirteenth street, at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

Patrolmen Paul Schultz and Julius Kulla of the Carr Street District were attracted by the screams of Mrs. Miller, and when they reached the alley behind her home, according to their report, they found Malone beating her. Schultz arrested Malone, and Kulla was about to arrest Mrs. Miller, when she sprang upon Schultz's back and bore him to the ground.

Malone took Schultz's night stick from him and struck him on the head with it. Kulla pulled Mrs. Miller off of Schultz and took Schultz's night stick from Malone. Then Mrs. Miller snatched Kulla's night stick. Schultz recovered from Malone's blow and went to his partner's assistance. He took Kulla's night stick from Mrs. Miller. Malone grabbed Schultz's night stick from Kulla and ran into the house, saying he was going to get a revolver.

The two policemen followed Malone into the house and recovered Schultz's nightstick. While Schultz handled Malone, Mrs. Miller scratched and bit Kulla all the way to the patrol box, where the policemen telephoned for reinforcements.

After a trip to the downtown dispensary, where the policemen and their prisoners were treated for scalp wounds and lacerations about the face, Malone and Mrs. Miller were taken to the Carr Street Station and Schultz and Kulla went home.

$1700 VERDICT FOR MAN HURT IN SHOE STRIKE

Hamilton-Brown Co. Held to Be Liable for Acts of Its Employees.

A jury in Circuit Judge Kinsey's court yesterday returned a verdict for $1700 in favor of Paul Mackiewicz of 1221 North Twentieth street against the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. in a suit for $50,000 damages. Mackiewicz, a striking shoemaker, on May 8, 1912, was attacked as he was leaving a saloon at 1228 North Twentieth street, and severely beaten. He alleged in his suit that the attack was made by strike-breakers, aided by two superintendents and several floor foremen of the shoe company.

As a result of the assault, he said, the hearing of one of his ears was destroyed, he was unable to work for five weeks and he has lost 25 pounds in weight.

The company's defense was that it was not liable for the acts of its employees in a fight.

VETERAN POLICEMAN HURT IN RUNAWAY COLLISION

Napoleon Archambault, 42
Years on Force, Thrown From Patrol Wagon.

Napoleon Archambault, one of the oldest policemen in St. Louis, was injured at 12:30 o'clock this morning when a patrol wagon team ran away. He was responding to a call from Old Manchester road and Macklin avenue, when the horses became frightened at a red light. Driver Daniel Hartly could not control them as they dashed west along Old Manchester road. At Sublette avenue they collided with a telegraph pole and Archambault was thrown heavily against the side seat, and his back was severely wrenched.

He was taken to his home, 5593 Page boulevard. He is 63 years old, and has been on the force for 42 years. Hartly escaped with a few minor bruises.

MAN WHO SHOT ANOTHER IN HIS HOME ACQUITTED

John Hauck, charged with manslaughter in the fourth degree, was acquitted in Judge Hennings' court yesterday after the jury had deliberated a few moments.

Hauck was charged with killing William Sweeney in Hauck's home, 21 South Fifteenth street, Oct. 30 last. Hauck pleaded self-defense, saying he had fired at Sweeney when the latter charged him with a revolver. Hauck said Sweeney had been attentive to his wife.

2 COWS, SOLE SUPPORT OF FAMILY OF 7, STOLEN

Woman, With 5 Children, Asks
County to Help Find Animals;
Husband in Hospital.

Mrs. Mildred Stiles, who lives on the Olive street road at Partridge avenue, searched along the road today for her two cows, her sole dependence for the support of herself and her five children. The animals were stolen in the night from the pasture near her home. She has appealed to the county authorities to help find them.

Mrs. Stiles' husband, Lawrence Stiles, has been in a hospital for eight months with cancer. The woman, exhausting all her other resources, was reduced to dependence upon the two cows. The oldest of the children is 10 years. The baby, 8 months old, has been nurtured on the milk of one of the cows.

In her search she learned that a man had tried to sell the cows to a butcher named Hausmann. Beyond that she could obtain no trace of them. Sympathizing neighbors aided her in the search, but it was without result.

When Mrs. C. H. Dunkel, of 33 Linden street, Reading, Pa., was asked why she took Father John's Medicine for her cough, she replied, "it was recommended by my doctor." Villet, 25 Crown street, Meriden, Conn.; Frank Poff, Hallam, Pa.; Miss Catherine Boyle, 45 Blackburn street, Fairhaven, Mass.; Charles L. Brown, Irving, Ill., as well as a great many others.

Physicians, hospitals and other institutions all over the world endorse the merits of Father John's Medicine because they know of its history and value. 300,000 Women Will Come to You for This FREE MILK

We are going to pay you for it—we pay you ten cents cash for every can you hand out.

Wilson's milk is a "repeater"—that's the answer. It will cost us thousands of dollars to do it, but it's worth it.

We can afford to give it away now, because these same women will come back and buy again. You get all the benefit now. We both get the benefit hereafter.

We are running big announcements of this free distribution in The Post-Dispatch every day this week.

In next Sunday's Post-Dispatch we will publish a page advertisement containing a coupon. This coupon will be an order on you for

One Tall 10-Cent Can WILSON'S MILK FREE
SEE NEXT SUNDAY'S POST-DISPATCH

We ask you to accept these coupons in exchange for the milk. Mail the coupons and the can label fronts to us and we will send you our check in full.

Give your customers one ten-cent or two five-cent cans, as they prefer. But be sure to remove the label fronts first (see illustration), and send us one ten-cent can label or two five-cent can labels with each coupon. This is important. It is the only condition we insist upon.

Grocers, Prepare for This Free Distribution

Be sure to have enough Wilson's milk on hand to meet the demand. Your jobber has it or can get it on short notice. In other cities where this distribution has been made the demand has been many times more than most dealers expected—so get ready for it.

The evaporated milk business is growing by leaps and bounds. Millions of cases are sold today where hundreds were sold a few years ago.

Your customers spend more for milk than they do for sugar or any other grocery staple. We are going to make you the milkman—to show your customers that Wilson's milk is richer, purer, safer and cheaper than bottled milk; that it is more delicate in flavor, contains a larger proportion of cream and goes farther than any other evaporated milk. We're going to build up a permanent and profitable new line of business for you at our own expense. All we ask of you is to get ready to take care of it.

EAST ST. LOUIS PLANS BOULEVARD TO FREE BRIDGE

Mayor Chamberlin Tells of Plan to Attract Visitors From Missouri Side.

Mayor John Chamberlin of East St. Louis told a Post-Dispatch reporter last night his plan for connecting the wagon approach of the free bridge to East St. Louis' new boulevard system. He will lay his plan before the Park Board, he said.

The wagon approach will land near Tenth street and Pigot avenue. Tenth street is well paved virtually all the way to Pigot avenue from the business district.

Chamberlin plans to pave the few remaining blocks of Tenth street between Pigot and Illinois avenues. Illinois avenue merges into Louisiana boulevard, which connects with the encircling boulevard near Pittsburg Lake.

The boulevard probably will be completed next year, and will be more than 10 miles long, passing entirely around the city. Chamberlin believes that if the approach can be connected with the boulevard in the manner he suggests, East St. Louis will be visited by 1000 automobiles and 10,000 persons from St. Louis every Sunday.

MAJORITY REPORT FOR THE PARKWAY TO BE MADE TODAY

Delegates' Committee Returns
From Kansas City Inspection
Enthusiastic for Improvement.

SEEMS CERTAIN TO PASS

Big Majority in House for Measure and No Apparent Opposition in Council.

The beautiful Paseo and boulevard system of Kansas City was inspected yesterday by members of the Public Improvements Committee of the House of Delegates, who will report the central parkway bill favorably at tonight's meeting. It was reported on their return.

The committee will meet at 4 p. m. today to prepare reports on the bill, after reading the opposing argument submitted by attorneys for St. Louis University. There will be a favorable and unfavorable report, with a majority signing the favorable one which Chairman Scully will prepare. The passage of the bill in the House is confidently expected by its supporters, with about a half dozen votes against it.

Boasts Kansas City.

Delegate James F. Ford of the Eighth Ward, a member of the committee that visited Kansas City, was enthusiastic over the accomplishment of Kansas City.

"That city has built boulevards 25 years in advance of its needs," said Ford, "and it seems to be a fine thing for the town. It took us five hours to inspect their parkways and boulevards in automobiles, and we rode for miles along beautiful boulevards where no houses had been constructed. They have boulevards in places where we have not even built roads."

Ford will sign a favorable report on the pending bill. He said the committee members did not reveal, in their discussions, how they expected to vote, but all agreed that the bill should be reported tonight. No opposition to the measure has been manifested in the Council.

Kiel Holds Conference.

Mayor Kiel has invited Democratic and Republican Delegates to his office in the past week to question them on the parkway measure. He has assurances from leaders that the bill is supported by a substantial majority, probably by more than 20 of the 28 members.

The Kansas City trip was arranged by Mayor Kiel and Park Commissioner Davis. The entire House committee made the trip, leaving Sunday evening and returning this morning. They were welcomed by Mayor Jost and C. C. Carver of the Kansas City Park Board.

The committee is composed of Chairman Andrew Scully and Delegates James F. Ford, Herman J. Melsner, Thomas J. Butler, Thomas M. Byrne, John Moog and Henry F. Ebrecht.

KOLKSCHNIEDER IS FIGHTING PARKWAY

Brewer, in Advertisements,
Makes Misstatement About
Method of Taxation.

The Taxpayers' Protective Association, organized by Henry W. Kolkshneider, a North St. Louis brewer, had published in the morning papers today advertisements appealing to members of the House of Delegates to defeat the parkway bill.

Glaring misstatements are made in the advertisement with reference to the operation of the special tax system, by which the parkway will be financed. The federation attempts to make it appear that there will be a blanket assessment on all property in the benefited district without regard to value. It says:

"Special tax, as it operates in St. Louis, does not recognize value. It deals only with superficial area, that is, the number of square feet contained within the property subject to the tax."

What the Charter Says.

The new charter, under which the special taxes will be assessed to pay the damages to owners whose property will be condemned, says:

"For the payment of all such damages the commissioners shall assess against all the lots and parcels of property or interests therein especially benefited by the proposed public work or improvement, separately, and in the name of the several owners thereof, the amount that each such lot or parcel of property or interest therein so assessed shall be especially benefited by the proposed public work or improvement."

Members of the House of Delegates, in their investigation of the parkway problem, have familiarized themselves with this provision of the charter, and members of the Public Improvements Committee have, stated in public hearings that they are fully aware that each piece of property would be treated separately and that a blanket assessment could not be made.

Opposes Improvements.

In an interview with a Post-Dispatch reporter during the new charter campaign last summer, Kolkshneider declared that St. Louis already had too many parks and playgrounds, and that the money of taxpayers had been wasted in providing breathing spots for the people.

Kolkshneider has lived in St. Louis 40 years, but he did not become a naturalized citizen until the fall of 1910, when he wished to qualify himself for voting against prohibition.

His hobby is opposing all public improvements, such as sewers, streets and parks. His property in North St. Louis is entirely outside of the probable limits of the benefited district, and would not be affected by the parkway, except that it would have to pay its proportionate share of the parkway expense assessed against the city at large.

"Take it
from me—
I know!"

You swing on some real tobacco!

If you're a red-blooded citizen, you beat it across the fields to a tidy red tin of Prince Albert and get some smoke joy jammed into that system of yours.

Because P. A. was produced to put a new high top record on pipe and cigarette liberty. You can smoke it until the cows come home, it can't bite your tongue, can't parch your throat. And that's a fact!

PRINCE ALBERT

the national joy smoke

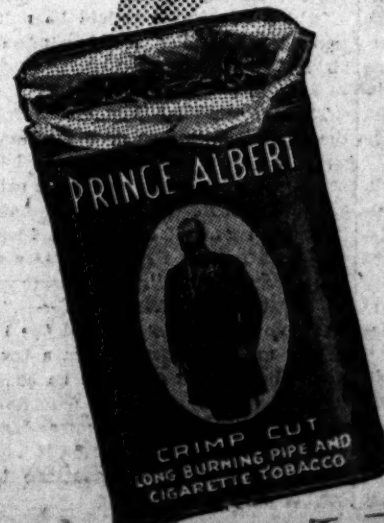

made by a patented process that cuts out the bite and the parch and just puts in the joy wallop—flavor, fragrance. Me-o-my, but what fun there's coming to the man who's game enough to match a dime against a tidy red tin of Prince Albert—tobacco that cost three years and a fortune to perfect!

Just kind o' let it sink in that you nor any other man anywhere ever did pack a pipe or roll a cigarette with such tobacco. P. A. is a revelation—a tobacco revolution that sure certain will smash joy right into your smoke department.

And today's fine for a go-to-it try-out!

Prince Albert is sold everywhere in tippy red bags, 5c tidy red tins, 10c; also in handsome pound and half-pound tins.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

New York "Rich, but Alien."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Congratulations on your editorial of Nov. 18. I read the article in Collier's, but I think all of the wrathful St. Louisans (I am from St. Louis) will be so pleased with your splendid "True Bill" that we can find nothing more to say—can only applaud.

"Charming provincialism" is good! And all too true! There is no hamlet in the Ozarks more provincial and more self-satisfied than this village, that after all only brought some strings of beads and other trifles at a certain sale some years back. As for Broadway, one can see more funny sights on Broadway than even in South St. Louis (which New Yorkers never heard of). I know the rest of the United States is very presuming to even dare to keep alive, but where would New York be if it were not for the green and genial visitor from the hinterland? Who keeps the hotel register open? Who buys tickets at $2 per car to see the same old show? Who leaves many checks on the wholesalers' desk? Who has the same s. and g. "visitor from St. Joe?" And if Mr. Mark Sullivan depended on New Yorkers to buy his news sheet I am afraid there would be another publishing house in difficulties.

It is a case of all coming in and nothing going out with New York, and the consequence is a most insufferable "new rich" pride, deaf to counsel and prejudice.

St. Louis cleaned up its city government and went quietly ahead in its quiet way. New York holds an annual "tiger hunt" and spends the rest of the year quarreling over the skin, while the feedists, L. W. W. and gunmen merely depopulate their respective quarters of the city.

All people who think and observe will thank you for holding the mirror up to the richest and most alien city of the nation.

A NATURALIZED NEW YORKER.

Advice to Heintze.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The U. R. epigrammatist "slipped a cog" when he adorned the cars with his latest "Think twice before you act once." A boy following similar instructions said, "Father, I think, I think your car is on fire." By the time he had thought twice the conductor will have closed the car door and left us with another think. R. B. GIBSON.

The Bear-Strap Blockade.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The United Railways Co. it seems has the services of a busy sign writer who is always thinking up some piece of wise advice to stick on a board and hang on the front platforms of the cars. He is all right, but there is one sign he hasn't thought of. Why doesn't he get out one like this:

MOVE UP CLOSER TO THE MOTORMAN
He won't bite you.

Most of these passengers who have to stand in the rush hours stay in the rear and of the car, though there is plenty of room toward the front end. After passengers board the car a few blocks from the starting point they find it almost impossible to force an entrance because the door is blocked by these bear-strap fiends. This is all the more exasperating because they know there is plenty of standing room inside. That busy sign writer, or somebody, ought to do something to relieve this condition.

ONE OF THE STANDING ARMY.

The Antitoxin Question.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The publicity which was given to the prices charged by druggists for diphtheria antitoxins in our newspapers was a gross injustice done to our local drug trade. It is regretted that the matter was not thoroughly investigated before the items were printed.

The facts are that the druggists pay nearly twice as much more for the brands of antitoxins they sell than the city pays for the brand it uses.

The statement that druggists make 100 per cent profit on antitoxins is untrue. On some brands a profit of 25 per cent, on others a maximum profit of 35 per cent may be realized. Considering the purchase price, small volumes of business, expense of exchanging "out-dated" antitoxins and expense of carrying on the retail drug business the profits are not extortionary or unreasonable.

Every person who understands the retail business will admit that, doing business with slow-selling articles, this gross profit will yield but a small net profit.

HIGH TARIFF VAUDEVILLE.

And what have our good friends of the dug-in high protection camp been doing, since a 38 House plurality put a crimp in the claim that every ill effect of the war on business was due to the Underwood bill?

Just about the same things evidencing total disregard for facts that they have been doing for half a century. All those old tariff fictions which have become not only familiar to the mature citizen, but endeared to him because of their associations with the time when he was a credulous first voter are to be found in the post-election issues of the American Economist. Of course it does not fall to find an endorsement for high protection in the election returns. Indeed, it says that the "policy of protection never won a more complete victory."

Its explanation of this extraordinary statement is that the party "was virtually without a head" in the election. What it means is that under corrupt practices acts it lacked the huge campaign fund it used to get by fat-frying the protected trusts.

We only had a vague hint before election of the war's usefulness to the standpatters. Everything encouraging in the industrial situation the Economist studiously attributes to the war's effect in checking foreign competition. Everything discouraging it attributes to the Underwood bill. By rigidly applying this rule and taking care not to get its causes and effects mixed, it is enabled to pronounce considerable damnation on the new act and to indulge in not a little agonized calamity-howling.

It still continues to insist that if the graft had not been taken out of the tariff, there would be no trouble with the revenues. The magic of Aldrichism would have been equal to the collection of real duties on phantom imports.

S. E. Baldwin's defeat in Connecticut was a protection victory, of course, but it wobbled a little over the defeat of S. W. McCall in Massachusetts. "Ah, I have it," it says after moments of bewilderment. McCall supported Canadian reciprocity. He got only what was coming to him. It soba over reported damage to the snap of the Littauer Glove Trust.

With courage unaffected by existing conditions it returns to the sugar attack. With wool getting almost as scarce as gold dollars and prices going up, it predicts the ruin of the sheep industry. This truly is magnificent—but it is not tariffology.

Triumphantly forestalling any misguided "free trader" who might affront common sense as well as the rule by attributing the foot and mouth scourge to the war, the Economist unhesitatingly adds the prevalence of this disease to the other enormities of the Underwood bill.

Hides were admitted free under both the Aldrich and the Underwood tariff laws. But according to Economist disease germs were barred under the former and slipped through under the latter. Inspection and quarantine do not count. Zoroaster and Zendaevista, George Ade's celebrated knock-about team, made two changes in their act in 17 years. In the seventh Zoroaster began wearing green instead of blue whiskers and in the 14th they bought a new slap-stick and put a card in the Clippert warning the public against imitations.

The high tariff vaudeville team does not even make a change once in half a century and like Zoroaster and Zendaevista they wonder why they get the hook.

THE HOSPITAL FUND.

In taking care of our own people an important point is the work of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association. The destitute sick must be provided for through the hospitals.

The need of aid is greater now than ever, not only because of the hard times which press upon the poor, but because some of the usual sources of supply are lessened.

The Saturday and Sunday collections this year should exceed the record by many thousands. It is an opportune occasion for liberality. Every dollar can be utilized.

THE BUMMELKASSE? HURRAY!

While not the exact equivalent of a lid club, we are told that the "Bummelkasse" is a practical substitute for one, is legally irrefragable and meets the public demand for a police-proof, armored oasis of reasonable saturation on Sunday.

Bummelkasse! We see that there will be times when that name will seem highly attractive. How does one get into the thing? Does it have a house committee and a warning against tipping and a password and an initiation ritual?

Or is it just another name for the Eads Bridge on Sunday?

GOV. JOHNSON'S OPPORTUNITY.

Gov. Hiram Johnson of California, nominee of the dying Progressive party, was re-elected Nov. 3 with a plurality five times larger than he got four years ago when he ran as the nominee of the theretofore dominant Republican party. It was a remarkable nonpartisan endorsement of his administration's work in getting the State better served at lower cost and in putting certain oppressive corporations out of political power.

The Governor's friends are now urging his availability as a Presidential candidate, and not without some warrant.

It is reported the Californians elected a Legislative majority pledged to, or favoring, enactment of laws segregating children of Japanese parents from children of American parents in the public schools, and withdrawing from the Japanese their privilege of leasing farm lands for three-year terms.

If Gov. Johnson entertains an ambition to win the presidency, he can best promote it by serving public notice upon the new California Legislature that he will veto any bills which may be passed at the next session proposing further to humiliate Japanese residents of California or to abrogate their limited industrial opportunities in that State.

No man ever did or ever will win the presidency by helping to pass state laws which violate the Nation's solemn treaty pledges and impose needless, dangerous slights upon the people of a neighboring friendly Power.

If California's demagogues must imperil the nation's peace to win elections to local offices, they might at least exhibit sufficient sensibility to postpone the discussion of their purpose during the year of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, to which Japan and the Japanese have been invited, as honored co-operators and guests.

REFORM THE JUSTICE SHOPS.

The St. Louis Civic League will renew in January the effort to pass the Municipal Court bill. This is the most important feature in the Civic League's program of legislation, and if it does not scatter too much it may get the measure through. In several instances of late, success has been attained in plans promising important betterment, after the public mind had been prepared for them by a campaign of education extending through several years. This seems to be a good time for pressing other meritorious plans for changes and improvement.

The campaign of publicity in behalf of the Municipal Court measure has been going on since 1908. New data showing its need have been added during the past year in Post-Dispatch exposure of Justice Court evils. The systems of courts at which the poor man must seek justice is politics-ridden and is marked by all the evils that might be expected from a tribunal so hampered. Everyone familiar with the workings of these disjointed courts knows their ignorance of the law, their scandals, their absurdities of various sorts, their costliness. These justice shops, where the petty-fogger flourishes on the bench as well as at the bar, should be abolished and a consolidated bench created with jurisdiction over minor cases in litigation.

The bill at the coming session will provide that the Justices of the new court shall be elected on a city-wide ticket. Why not bring the court into harmony with our new short ballot charter and provide that the Justices shall be appointed rather than elected?

ST. LOUIS DAY.

There is good judgment in Mayor Kiel's suggestion that St. Louis day at the Panama-Pacific Exposition be changed to July or August, instead of April. Few St. Louisans, not called there on official business, will be in Frisco during April. On the other hand, during July and August, preferably August, there is a possibility of a good St. Louis representation.

St. Louisans who expect to visit the exposition will choose the hot weather for their trip. Opportunity and the season will determine this point.

THE ANTITOXINE HOLDUP.

The Post-Dispatch's recent statement that druggists pay the manufacturers but $3.50 per 5000 units for the antitoxine they sell at retail for $7.50 was based on the experience of a physician. Conceded the usual "rebate to the profession," he obtained it at $3.50 and naturally supposed that sum represented the cost price.

But several druggists who have communicated with the Post-Dispatch say that the antitoxine they sell for $7.50 costs them $6 and that only a uniform 25 or 30 per cent is permitted them when the remedy is sold in other quantities and forms. A fixed expense incurred for ice boxes and ice in keeping antitoxine on hand ready for use must be added to the cost. While it runs into money fast at this price, the Post-Dispatch hears of cases in which generous, public-spirited druggists have unhesitatingly and cheerfully supplied the costly remedy for emergency use in families in such straitened circumstances that the collection of the bill was absolutely hopeless.

The margin between the $1.23 the city pays and the $7.50 afflicted families pay yawns too wide. Who gets it? The druggists say they don't. The new facts present all the more reason for protecting the public from the manufacturers. With a State or city laboratory supplying the remedy free, the holdup would come to a violent end. And children seem to be as valuable as the domestic animals for which some remedies are now furnished gratis.

THE BULL MOOSE AUTOPEY.

Amos Pincho's discovery that the Bull Moose party is dead is less interesting than his diagnosis of the disease of which it died. He says that blind leadership, surrender of its assets to George W. Perkins to promote a pro-trust propaganda, with Col. Roosevelt's approval, and general temporizing, vote-catching policies, caused its untimely demise. "It carried," he declares, "a withered and decidedly suspicious looking olive branch to labor and capital, to democracy and oligarchy."

New Nationalism, as defined in the Ossawatimie speech, is played out. The retreat has been sounded for the judicial recall. The cause of social justice is triumphant, but the Colonel's private brand of social justice sadly needs to be reinitiated. The ultimate consumer of coffee has definitely had his limit fixed at two cups. The country can be glad.

Claims that the report of the Bull Moose death is greatly exaggerated are based on a 261,000 vote in Pennsylvania, a Beveridge vote of 110,000 in Indiana, a 200,000 vote for Robins in Illinois and several hundred thousand for H. Johnson in California. Probably it polled a million or more votes, averaging 25 or 30 per cent of its 4,119,000 in 1913. But a new movement that fails to go ahead goes back.

TAKING THE ELUSIVE WATER WAGON.

The British water wagon evidently caused the Cabinet anxious thought in arranging a budget to which all classes should be required to contribute. Chancellor Lloyd-George's reference in his budget speech was to the "elusive teetotalen, as hard to catch as the Emden."

They would catch him only infrequently with the increased tax on incomes, for the average water wagon man in the British Isles is of moderate means, and they would not catch him at all, of course, with the additional half-penny on a glass of beer. They thought they could catch him with a tax on mineral water until they reflected on the negligible consumption except as a constituent of "brandy and —." But they believe now that they rounded the Emden of taxpayers when they slipped a tax of 6 cents a pound on the tea of which he consumes prodigious quantities.

But did they? Maybe Thomas Lipton is the one who will have to pay it. And if he does how will he get the money to continue building more yachts named Shamshup?

THEY'VE DUG THEMSELVES IN.

JUST A MINUTE.

PANETELA.

Ode to the Missouri Corn-cob.
When I was young and had to build the kitchen fire each morning,
And let the wind around the house was singing like a top,
I learned to love the humble cob, the wood-house crib adorning.
The rough and ready corn-cob, which I never had to chop—
The homely, handy fuel which was dearer than a jewel;
Though fate seemed cold and cruel, still it brightened up the job.
I never needed splitting when the snow-flakes down were falling.
And with gratitude unquitting I revere and love the cob.

And when I came to man's estate (the only one I came to)
I found the cob was still a friend to cheer me on my way;
I found it made the finest pipes man ever set a flame to.
Far sweeter than the best they make of briar root and clay.
O friend of innocence and age, for both the sorrow to assuage.
Would I could set on printed page fit tribute to your worth superior—
You're true and tried in many ways, you've earned our praise through all our days.
You have a tender heart always beneath your rough exterior.
—Jewell Mayes in Seneca (Mo.) News-Dispatch.

Owned originally by the poor peasants of County Kerry, the Dexters ran practically at will over the hills, shelterless at all seasons of the year, and compelled to forage for food. This strenuous outdoor life weeded out all the weaklings; only the very strongest survived and these transmitted their vigor to their offspring in increasing measure, until the Dexter of today is an animal that, according to the statements of those who know the breed well, can thrive on less food than even the most thrifty of animals, the goat, would find exceedingly poor pickings.

A FINE WILSON ACHIEVEMENT.
From the Kansas City Star.

After the panic of 1907 there was a universal cry that "something be done" to correct the antiquated banking system. The sentiment was so divided as to what ought to be done that no progress was made. The frankly temporary remedy of the Aldrich-Vreeland act was adopted and then Congress stopped in a deadlock.

A banker interested in the question was asked two years ago when he thought there would be adequate banking and currency legislation. "A year after the next panic," was his reply.

But with the tariff revision still unsettled President Wilson had the energy and confidence to call on Congress to deal with the question of financial legislation. Contrary to the prophecies of all the wise observers a comprehensive measure was put through.

The President has good reason for the note of jubilation in his letter to Secretary McAdoo, congratulating him on the successful opening of the Federal reserve banks, on which such high hopes are built. The legislation creating them was a splendid achievement for the Wilson administration and for President Wilson himself.

BILLIE BURKE IS HERSELF IN MERRY ROLE OF "JERRY"

She Leads Audience Through an Evening of Laughter at the Olympic.

Miss Billie Burke provided a large audience at the Olympic last evening with a jolly entertainment, although it is doubtful if half the persons could have told why they were amused. They just went along with Miss Burke and had a good time when she appeared to and wasted no time trying to analyze the cause of their merriment.

She is supposed to be appearing in a comedy entitled "Jerry." It might as well be called that as anything. The only object of the piece is to exhibit Miss Burke in riding breeches, polka and some stunning gowns and to let her display her fun-making qualities. It is a star part with no backing that would possibly entitle the play to be known as a comedy.

Still, besides Miss Burke, there was an excellent company. This was the case in the episode at which Miss Burke gracefully seated herself and warbled a sentimental little song, appearing to play a rippling accompaniment. But as Miss Burke finished and the instrument, the funny piano started playing a second verse and Miss Burke returned to her seat in some confusion.

Miss Burke runs things. But little things like a lack of support by lines or piano do not trouble Miss Burke. She knows who is the entertainment and proceeds to run things from the moment, not many seconds delayed, in the first act when she appears in her auto (a Sky car—40—1914—X, Y, Z, etc.), until she waves a good-by in the episode (in a cotton dress made expressly from real Southern cotton—buy a bale).

In the first act she proceeds to break up an engagement that has existed 20 years between her aunt and a man "Jerry" suddenly decides she must marry herself. This enables her to, disappear in a street gown, a ball gown, an old gown of her aunt's in order to copy a picture and to dangle her ankles gracefully from a table as she telephones to a newspaper that her aunt's engagement is broken off and that she is to marry another.

To steal the morning newspaper in the second act, enables Miss Burke to display charming lingerie and later a riding suit. The picture idea made it necessary for Miss Burke to be in bed so her mother sends her there for being naughty in telephoning the newspaper and she passes the third act among pillows and in writing suicide notes. This scene makes a pretty picture, but the action is not pleasant. The suicide notes, however, form a quick means of bringing everyone together and making all end happily.

After the skit is ended there is an epilogue. This enables Miss Burke to wear the aforementioned cotton dress and sing at the player piano that won't stop. Her singing is dainty like her acting and makes the audience forgive the epilogue and wish she would sing home.

All in all it's a merry Billie Burke show, full of Billie Burlesques for Billie Burke admirers, of whom there are such an abundance that a prosperous merry Thanksgiving week is assured at the theater.

COLUMBIA. Plenty of good music and fun were enjoyed last evening by the audience at the Columbia. Beckel and Watson, who head the bill, present an act which kept the spectators in constant merriment. Their musical satire was thoroughly appreciated. Mme. Jomelli, member of the Chicago and Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, sang a number of high-class operatic numbers in splendid manner and with the closest attention. To top up lovers her appearance is a genuine treat and they showed their enthusiasm. The other numbers upon the long bill are all entertaining and there is an abundance of fun throughout.

MARIE TEMPEST A DELIGHT IN A NEW HENRY JONES PLAY

Ripley Saunders Finds "Mary Goes First" a Fine Comedy of English Small-Town Life.

COMPANY FROM LONDON

Star Is Aided in Triumph by Strong Cast That Won Success in England.

PLAYGOERS' GUIDE

"Today," Shubert. Powerful play in which a young wife's vanity leads on to tragedy. Presented by an exceedingly capable company.

"Billie Burke" in "Jerry." Olympic. A fun-making play full of Billie Burke's kind of the kind that delight her admirers.

"Kismet Me," American. A farce dealing with the adventures of Pullman car passengers. A New York success, given in a good presentation here.

"The Conspiracy," Park. A story of the underworld as seen from the office of a New York District Attorney.

"The Balkan Princess," Shubert. A musical comedy splendidly given. Scored a hit last week at the Park.

"Vanderbilt," Columbia. An attractive bill headed by Bickel and Watson. Mme. Jeanne Joell, dramatic soprano, and a clever company of dancers.

"The Love Club," Princess. Clean, lively burlesque.

"Vanderbilt," Grand Opera House. Mrs. Irene's Circus heads a bill which includes many pleasing acts.

"Vanderbilt," Hippodrome. Powerful. Elephants from the New York Hippodrome are the feature of a well-balanced bill.

"Girls From Lehighland," Gaiety. Burlesque. The Vanderbills, headed by the Handout King.

"The Fast Girl Company," Standard. Burlesque with a large chorus and plenty of dancing.

"Damaged Goods," Garrick. A strong photoplay.

"The Romance of William," Strand. Interesting photoplay.

"Little Gray Lady," New Grand Central. A Frobenius success in photoplay.

Photoplay, Juniors.

By Ripley D. Saunders

Dramatic Critic of the Post-Dispatch.

Who Is in New York Reviewing the Season's New Plays.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Henry Arthur Jones has written an extremely clever social satire in "Mary Goes First," and Marie Tempest and her London company, whom I have just seen at the Comedy Theater, play it so divertingly that it keeps its audience in a grateful mood of humorous appreciation as they pass every moment of its joyous progress.

Mrs. Tempest herself is especially delightful in the name part of Mary, otherwise Mrs. Richard Whythello, who until the story's opening before our eyes, has been the unchallenged leader in the more or less "smart society" of Warkinstall, a small manufacturing city of considerable wealth and much pretension, where the daily round of life, in its customs, prejudices, follies and caste distinctions, is as English as plum pudding and as rigid in narrow formalism as British society itself.

Now, however, Mary's nose is out of joint. The King-God bless him!—has just conferred the honor of knighthood upon one Thomas Bodsworth, a rich "boulanger," and, of course, the newly-made Lady Bodsworth, wife of the newly-made Sir Thomas, is undisputed precedence over Mary, "going in first" to dinner and all that sort of thing, don't you know!

My word, but it's unendurable! Life isn't worth living to Mary if she must henceforth play second fiddle to this bulky paragon of the county!

And Mary, who has a keen wit, a hot temper, a ready tongue and a perfectly lovely sense of humor, doesn't intend to play second fiddle. She lays certain crafty plans for the discomfiture and defeat of her social enemy. She puts these plans into secret operation.

All the time, too, she is driving poisoned arrows of stinging ridicule through Lady Bodsworth's thick skin until that poor creature, blundering fighting back in her own pompously stupid way, is well-nigh distracted with chagrin and angry mortification.

A Veritable Little Social Hornet.

Mary is a ruthless little social hornet. She creates scenes after scenes of overwhelming embarrassment for her rival. She induces her husband, good-natured Dick, Warkinstall, to dispute Sir Thomas Bodsworth's political supremacy in Warkinstall, "standing for" election in Parliament as a Liberal and fighting Sir Thomas' dull Toryism with audacious effrontery.

She "gets on the soft side" of one of the Liberal party's leading "whips," Alas, however—one of her most meretricious flings at Lady Bodsworth involves Dick, as defendant, in an onerous suit for libel, brought by the stolidly ignorant Sir Thomas and there comes a moment when Mary and Dick seem doomed to disaster with the Bodsworths exulting, victorious, on the battlefield of Mary's own choosing!

But a good "bluff" in life, as in poker, wins many a jack pot. Mary is a queen of bluffers. She plays her cards without the blunder of an eye. She refuses the Bodsworths' offer to withdraw their libel suit if she will write Lady Bodsworth a humiliating letter of public apology. She has taken pains to convince Lady Bodsworth that the latter's blindness of vision and manufactured complacency—which were the basis of the malicious little feminine taint that provoked the libel suit—will be "spot-lighted" on the witness stand for all their eyes to see.

And she is right. At the last moment the libel suit is withdrawn. At that same moment, too, comes the news that Mary's dear Dick, for the purpose of routing of Lady Bodsworth gloriously has succeeded.

Mary Goes First in Her Triumph.

The Liberal "whip," stimulated by a smashing big contribution to the Liberal party's "war fund" from Dick's private fortune, has brought about the revival of an ancient baronetcy appertaining to the Whythello family and Dick is now created a Baronet, thus outstriking Sir Thomas Bodsworth, a mere knight.

"Mary Goes First" hereafter, indeed, His Majesty, George V., by the Grace of God King of Great Britain and Ireland and Emperor of India, defender of the faith and all the rest of the monarchical tennor—has made it impossible for Lady Bodsworth, wife of Sir Thomas Bodsworth, knight, to precede Lady Mary, wife of Sir Richard Whythello, Baronet, in the rigidly ordered procession of the dinner, the established degree of which are so sacred to the English soil.

Whereupon Mary is so tickled she herself takes the ponderous Lady Bodsworth in to dinner, both "going first," so to speak, though they find difficulty owing to Lady Bodsworth's size, in passing out through the drawing room door side by side.

Mrs. Tempest's Wonderful Little Laugh.

Mrs. Tempest is a charmingly exasperating and diabolically resourceful Mary. Her little laugh of mingled fun and mischievous malice is in itself a comedy masterpiece. The very tenderness of her eyes crinkle up and disappear in tricky mirthfulness at certain jubilant moments fills the beholder with unholly joy and her tantalizing voice, with its quaint fashion of flying far off the key under strain of excitement, irresistibly emphasizes the lines of its tumultuous utterance. She is fondly "petted" by her New York audiences and seems to be a prime favorite.

The London company supporting Mrs. Tempest is an admirable half-comedy organization. The cast includes Frank-lyn Dyll as Richard Whythello, Kate Serjeantson as Lady Bodsworth, Kenyon Muirgrave as Sir Thomas Bodsworth, W. Graham Brown as Felix Gelpin, the Whythello's lawyer, John Alexander as Mr. Tausman, the Bodsworth's lawyer, Herbert Ross as Dr. Chesser, uncle of Felix Gelpin, Guy Newall as Harvey Betts, the Liberal "whip," Lilian Cavanaugh as Ella Southwood, niece of the Whythellos; Barbara Penn as Mrs. Tadmam, and others.

"The Conspiracy," a play by Robert Baker and John Emerson, that is difficult to "put over" convincingly, was well done last night by the stock company at the Park Theater. The three acts of the drama are replete with situations that tax the credibility of the most glib and it takes considerable acting to save them from becoming ridiculous.

The play deals with the Scarlet Band of New York, a gang of summer who have kidnapped the Assistant District Attorney. His sister, who has aided him in his campaign against the traffickers in women, kills the leader of the band. The play is devoted to the efforts of the girl's friends to save her from arrest and the attorney from being killed by the gang. This is all accomplished by Winthrop Claverling, a writer of crime stories, whose deductive instincts would make Sherlock Holmes look like a correspondence school detective after his first lesson.

Bob McClurg, as Claverling, did his part cleverly, standing head and shoulders above the remainder of the cast.

Miss Marion Ruckert, as the sister of the District Attorney, was excellent in the second act. Miss Eda von Buelow as the villainess had a short part, but did it well. John Howell, the newspaper reporter, was the usual stage reporter, which means he was not in the least natural. Most of the smaller parts were well done. Phillips Teed as one of the Scarlet Band did a fine bit of work as a dope fiend.

INTEREST RATES ARE LOWER IN EASTERN MARKET

New York Banks Make Time Loans on 4 3/4 Per Cent Basis.

It is necessary to apply to the $135,000,000 Cotton Futures Committee for assistance.

"We have heard of this later on, after the committee has organized the selection of smaller committees in Southern states to pass upon the applications for loans received from cotton growers and from cotton belt banks.

"All the addresses were read with interest, and although the full reports were not available, the fact that the speakers referred so hopefully to the future was taken to mean that the financial depression was near its end."

Mrs. JARR finally arrived with the two hat boxes, the wicker suitcase and his pockets bulging. All three containers held articles that Gertrude, the light running domestic, and a select committee of Mrs. Jarr's women friends had thrust upon him as being what Mrs. Jarr would surely need, seeing she had been taken away on her trip "without a thing."

The last words of this friendly female committee to Mr. Jarr had been: "Give those things and our love to your wife and, if she's going to stay down here for a day or so, tell her to write and we'll pack her trunk and send it to her!"

A colored driver of one of the depot buses offered to take Mr. Jarr and his burdens anywhere for a quarter. But Mr. Jarr didn't know where he might find his good lady.

He finally decided to obtain a room at a hotel and leave Mrs. Jarr's baggage there and then go to seek her. He knew he'd find her, perhaps late, perhaps early, somewhere.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Jarr saw Mr. Blodgett and the rest of her party arrested in the stolen Klansy Kar that Mr. Deenham, alias "The Speed Kid," had left upon their hands.

"It's Providence, I suppose," sighed Mrs. Jarr, rather relieved. For Mrs. Jarr, like many others, regarded the misfortunes of friends with resignation. She turned, wondering what she would do next, to face the military figure of Capt. Herbert Tynnefoyle of the Rosemary Grays. But Capt. Tynnefoyle was not in uniform. He was pale yet resolute and whispered "Call me Jones."

And he unhesitated a large pair of marine glasses and swept the horizon.

"Is everybody I meet here crazy?" cried Mrs. Jarr. "Put up those spy-glasses," Capt. Tynnefoyle winced—and came find a telegraph office for me. I wish to send a message to Mr. Jarr to come here and get me and take me home to my children. And—and she spoke with much emphasis, "I don't leave them soon again, either."

"We must be cautious, then," said Capt. Tynnefoyle. "When the war broke out the Rosemary Grays disbanded. But I had reason to know I was a marked man in the eyes of the belligerents. I know I am constantly shadowed by spies. I have reason to believe that little boy with the red bowties is a member of some foreign General Staff in disguise. As for that old man who stood on his head, you will admit that his actions were peculiar!"

"And so are yours," snapped Mrs. Jarr. "What are you doing here?"

"On military duty. In case war is declared against us, I can see the approach of the hostile forces, and immediately rush to the defense of Denver!" explained the gallant militia man. "Denver shall never be taken!"

"You are preparing to go a long way to defend the country," remarked Mrs. Jarr. "I thought you were always eager to lead your militia company to bat-

"We will mobilize—in Denver!" explained Capt. Tynnefoyle. "Our disbanding was but a ruse. When war was declared I called the gallant Rosemary Grays to arms and asked them: 'In case our country becomes involved, and the enemy lands upon our coast, there shall be our first line of defense.' We decided, as one man, to meet the enemy half way. Denver is half way. That is the reason why I fear I am shadowed by spies!"

"Well," said Mrs. Jarr, "all I am afraid of is that somebody may see us together before Mr. Jarr comes, and then there would be a nice scandal."

The words had hardly died on her lips when she blushed, for coming up toward them was Clara Muiridge-Smith and that dashing and, up to now, uncaptured bachelor, Jack Silver.

Mrs. Jarr turned into a store conducting its daily "Absolutely Retiring From Business Auction," while Capt. Tynnefoyle bent down his head and looked intently absorbed at the ground.

HICKVILLE DOINGS
From Our Hickville Correspondent
Hazen Conklin

Local Goings On.
A MOS CRABB, our local sneerer, hit his thumb while driving a picture nail last night while we was callin' on him to get him to sneer some sneers for us. We didn't have to ask him for none; they come out impromptu-like, and here they be—that is, some of 'em: Folks who carry hammers is bound to pound their own thumbs now and then, but they get more pleasure outa soakin' other folks' fingers.

Old Bandmaster Prosperity only counts folks who are standin' up, which is why he counts so few.

There's many a "There's No Place Like Home" motto hangin' up where somebody in the family says "thank goodness" every time they look at it.

The only way a man kin foil his wife's "right of search" for munitions of war is to wear his pants to bed instead of leavin' 'em hangin' over a chair in neutral territory.

Our colleague, Ike Anderson, the Elderside correspondent, says as how the recent cold snap in his midst caused Sid Trimble to move his quarters from the sunny side of the post-office to the cracker barrel nearest the stove in O. M. Wick's staple and fancy grocery store. Simultaneous at the same time we coincidentally mailed him a letter sayin' as how Lufe Johnson, Hippolyte Harkness, Lew Ballum and Nathan Stokes, our to-backer chewin' quartet, has transferred their marksmanship contests from the knothole targets in the boardwalk in front of Bemis Bros' Emporium to the sawdust box alongside the barrel stove in the back room. As soon as they git the new range the floor will be a sight dryer.

Incidentally and by the way, our local sporting season has opened. Tournaments has begun in checkers, dominoes, cribbage, pinocle, quilting and not forgettin' experience swappin'. Who the local champions will be this year is causin' much speculation.

Mrs. Rufe Pettibone had her youngest offspring Clarianna all sewed up in her winter flannels and then discovered that she'd left a cambric needle in the second layer. She hasn't made up her mind yet whether to rip out and go back for it or to leave it and recover it next spring.

Bert Bell is talkin' now about openin' a moving picture theater in our midst if he kin get Ezra Hicks, our local Oregon, to back him. If he could get a movin' picture of Ezra lettin' go of so much as a cent folks would come from miles around to see the filium.

Failure is not knowin' how to succeed.

Powder.
SHE: Why do authors always speak of a smile creeping over the heroine's face?
HE: Perhaps they're afraid that if it went any faster it might kick up a dust.

His Kind.
W HAT kind of a fellow is he?"
"Oh, he's the kind of a fellow who goes out for a walk with you, and then tells you how democratic he is; not afraid of being seen with anybody."

An Orchid Moment!
SHE: Oh, do be careful! You tread right on me corns!
HE: Sorry! Why do you grow such things?
She: I grows 'em for a 'obby, like as some grows horchids and such.

The One Who Suffered.
NEIGHBOR: The baby suffers from sleeplessness, does it?
Mr. Jeroloman (haggard and hollow-eyed): I didn't say it suffered. It seems to enjoy it. I'm the one that suffers.
